Intestate Estates,—						Deposits have always been mingled with the other accounts of the Treasury, excepting a sum of £4,000, which was kept for a time as a special deposit on account of Intestate Estates. On September 30, 1862, there was a credit balance in the hands of the Colonial Treasurer of £32,034 15s. 2d., and on the 30th September, 1863, a credit balance of £11,035 16s. 3d.; but by the 30th September, 1864, the whole of the available funds had been absorbed, and since that date the Bank Account has continued to be overdrawn; but in the early part of 1865, the then Treasurer, Mr. Fitzherbert, paid the amount of the Intestate Estates Fund to a separate account at the Bank of New Zealand, which causes the balance to be shown here as in the Treasury.
