SATURDAY, 4TH DECEMBER, 1875.

The Commission opened at half-past nine, Mr. Commissioner Weston and Mr. Commissioner Beetham being present.

Mr. T. Mackay appeared to represent the Crown.

Mr. J. B. Fisher and Mr. W. R. Haselden appeared on behalf of several claimants.

Mr. Commissioner Weston, addressing the Crown representative and counsel engaged, stated that, in order to enable the Secretary to bring up arrears of evidence and to give Mr. Commissioner Beetham and himself an opportunity to study the cases already heard, it would, he thought, be better to adjourn until Monday, the 6th December.

Mr. Mackay concurred with his Honor, stating that the adjournment would be very opportune, as it would enable him to prepare for cases yet to be heard.

Mr. J. B. Fisher and Mr. W. R. Haselden agreed with his Honor that an adjournment till Monday would be very desirable. The cases so far had been proceeded with so rapidly that they had had little time to prepare them or to attend to any other business.
