The direct cost to the Department in detecting and prosecuting sly-grog sellers during the year was £322, this being £1,927 less than the amount of fines imposed.

GAMING OFFENCES.

There were 257 prosecutions, resulting in 216 convictions, during the year under the gaming laws, against 214 prosecutions and 181 convictions in 1915.

CRIMINAL REGISTRATION BRANCH.

During the year the finger-impressions of 2,590 prisoners were received, classified, searched, and filed, and 166 prisoners were identified as previous offenders in this Dominion, Australia, England, &c.; 710 photographs were taken by the photographers attached to this branch; the portraits of 1,811 prisoners were dealt with; and 439 photographs of discharged prisoners were reproduced in the Police Gazette. The Police Gazette increased in volume by 47 pages of printed matter.

On the 31st March last the finger-print collection consisted of the impressions of 19,508 offenders, being an increase of 1,374 over the previous year. The total number of finger-impressions received during the year shows a decrease of 382 compared with the previous year, and the number of prisoners identified shows a decrease of 52.

The finger-print collection, now containing nearly twenty thousand sets of impressions, in its present state of classification requires too much time when searching for corresponding prints, and the work of further subdividing it has been commenced. This is a long and tedious task, as each set of impressions has to be dealt with separately and reference made on index cards, criminal histories, correspondence files, &c. The work will take some months to complete, as it can be done only in

The following table shows the increase of the finger-print collection since the introduction of the finger-print system of identification in March, 1903.

GROWTH OF DEPARTMENT.

The following return shows the growth of the Department, the continued increase of the population, and the total number of offences (irrespective of by-laws offences) reported, and in which arrests or summonses resulted, each year since 1877, prior to which date each province in the Dominion had its own Police Force, and reliable data are not available:—

GENERAL.

Commissioner J. Cullen, I.S.O., retired on superannuation on the 23rd November, 1916, after a long connection with the New Zealand Police Force. Since his retirement Mr. Cullen has been awarded the King's Police Medal, he being the first member of the New Zealand Police Force to receive the distinction.

The conduct of the members of the Force has on the whole been very satisfactory during the year. Notwithstanding the great increase of special work arising out of war conditions, all members of the Force, especially those in charge of stations and in other responsible positions, have done their work, sometimes under difficulties and hardships, thoroughly and well and without complaint.

7 H.--16.

A considerable reduction in the strength of the Force has taken place. This is partly due to normal causes, such as retirement on superannuation, death, and dismissal, and partly to resignations, principally of single men, in order to join the Expeditionary Forces.

Owing to dearth of recruits the Police-training Depot at Wellington has been closed since last December. To fill vacancies in the Force advantage has had to be taken of section 32 of the War Legislation Amendment Act, 1916, and a number of temporary constables have been sworn in. It is not yet known to what extent this experiment will be satisfactory, nor how long it can be carried on, as most of the men offering for such service are untrained, and some are advanced in age, and those of military age will be subject to the operation of the ballot. It is evident that a critical condition will be reached if the regular Force suffers further depletion by the causes above stated. But I am glad to state that the temporary men appointed have so far generally given satisfaction.

It might be assumed that returned soldiers, on account of their training and discipline, would be suitable for appointment to the Police Force, but up to the present very few of them have made application for enrolment. This may be due to the fact that the majority of the returned soldiers are probably not physically fit for police duty, and that those who eventually do become fit for work either do not wish to join the Force, or obtain suitable employment in other occupations.

The necessity for providing adequate training-quarters for recruits after the war is evident. To bring the Force up to its full strength a much larger number of recruits than usual will require to be trained, and a longer period of training according to modern requirements will be desirable. Not only should attention be given to the general education of recruits who are backward in this respect, but an advance should be made to give technical instruction to all in certain subjects, such as shorthand and typewriting; photography, sketching, and draughtsmanship as applied to police work; chemistry relating to the identification and operation of poisons; professional lectures in law, physiology, and medical jurisprudence, &c. The value to the community of a well-trained and equipped Police Force is now better realized, and the expenditure of money in educating the men in the direction suggested to bring them to the highest point of efficiency would be of material benefit to the public and to the members of the Force themselves. Courses of special instruction might also be given with advantage to members of the Criminal Investigation Branch and sergeants at regular intervals, and also to a number of constables.

Under the War Regulations Amendment Act, 1916, power was given to make regulations relating to the liquor traffic. On the 21st August, 1916, regulations were made to prohibit treating in or about licensed premises, and to restrict women from resorting to such premises after 6 o'clock p.m. These regulations have been vigorously enforced. Police officers in charge of districts are almost unanimous in attributing the decrease of drunkenness chiefly to the operation of these regulations. No doubt the departure from the Dominion of such a large number of men with the Expeditionary Forces and for other purposes connected with the war has also been a factor in the reduction of the amount of drunkenness recorded.

Numerous complaints have been received at different times that the anti-treating regulations were disregarded, and from time to time special steps were taken to enforce the regulations, and many convictions have been recorded. Probably owing to the difficulty of detecting such offences, Magistrates have usually imposed heavy penalties, which no doubt have acted as a deterrent and greatly assisted the police in enforcing the regulations. There is reason to believe that many licensees, from a sense of loyalty and in sympathy with the spirit of the times, have faithfully observed the law, and it is certain that others flagrantly disregarded it, reckless of all considerations but their own Considering the nature of the regulations, the extreme difficulty of detecting breaches, and the serious inroad upon the business income of licensees suddenly effected by the operation of antitreating, a fair measure of compliance with the law has been achieved.

Later regulations were enacted enabling Licensing Committees to deal more effectively and promptly with badly conducted licensed houses. In only one instance have these regulations been invoked, but the Licensing Committee permitted a transfer of the license before the matter came on The ground of the application did not relate to any breach of the licensing laws, but to a breach of a war regulation.

The summary powers given to the police by the regulations issued to suppress the illicit sale of liquor enabled them to act with greater promptness, and it can be said that such illicit traffic has now been practically effaced.

War regulations were also issued for the suppression of houses of ill fame, and these houses, by reason of the operation of the regulations, are now reported to be non-existent in the Dominion. The general desire of officers in charge of districts is that the provisions of these regulations may be enacted permanently as an amendment to the Police Offences Act.

Soon after the passing of the Military Service Act, 1916, an agitation began to develop against the operation of the Act, and disaffection threatened to hamper seriously the arrangements of the Government for sending transports away, and supplying provisions and other essential commodities for Imperial purposes in connection with the war. Proceedings were instituted under the War Regulations against a number of persons for having made seditious speeches, and in many instances terms of imprisonment were imposed on the offenders. The firm and consistent application of the War Regulations referred to eventually checked the movement. It is safe to say that but for this action a state of turmoil and upheaval such as this country has not yet experienced would have eventuated.

Reports of Officers in charge of Districts.

Extracts from the annual reports of officers in charge of districts are hereto annexed.

J. O'Donovan, Commissioner of Police

EXTRACTS FROM ANNUAL REPORTS OF OFFICERS IN CHARGE OF DISTRICTS.

SUPERINTENDENT KIELY, AUCKLAND DISTRICT.

On the 31st March last the authorized strength of the Force in this district was 183 of all ranks, made up as follows: 1 Superintendent, 1 Inspector, 1 Sub-Inspector, 3 senior sergeants, 21 sergeants, 147 constables, 1 Chief Detective, 2 detective-sergeants, and 6 detectives. addition there were 5 district constables, 4 Native constables, 3 special constables, 1 matron, and I surgeon. The actual strength on the 31st March last was 178, there being 5 constables under strength.

The police-station at Herekino has been closed. The watch-house building adjoining the Auckland Station has been demolished and a new three-story building, including further cell accommodation, is being erected in its place. This building is a very real necessity, as the office and cell accommodation in the old building was quite inadequate.

During the year I constable retired on superannuation, I constable was discharged medically unfit, and II constables resigned.

Twelve constables were fined for minor breaches of the regulations, otherwise the conduct of the men in general has been very good.

The total number of offences reported for the year 1916 was 5,105, as compared with 6,375 in the previous year, a net decrease of 1,270. Of the total number of offences reported, over 95 per cent. were accounted for by either arrest or summons. The following are the principal increases and decreases: Increases—Bankruptcy offences, 14; carnally knowing girls, 14; deserting or absenting from merchant vessels, 45; forgery and uttering, 29; gaming offences, 46; keeping disorderly houses or brothels, 13; rape, 4. Decreases—Abusive, insulting, or threatening words or behaviour, 23; common assaults, 83; breaches of the peace, 20; disobeying orders of the Court, 44; drunkenness, 709; failing to provide for wives, &c., 48; false pretences, 50; illegally on premises, 25; mischief, 15; obscene language, 42; soliciting prostitution, 26; theft by servants, 15; theft from dwellings, 42; and vagrancy, 4. The remarkable decrease in drunkenness alone is very gratifying indeed, as is also the marked decrease in serious crime. No doubt the War Regulations dealing with anti-treating have to some extent helped towards the reduction of drunkenness. These regulations have been rigidly enforced No doubt the War Regulations dealing with and trace been rigidly enforced towards the reduction of drunkenness. These regulations have been rigidly enforced throughout the district as far as practicable, and I am pleased to be able to report that their provisions are being more generally observed of late. The salutary fines imposed on offenders brought before the Court have helped considerably towards attaining that very desirable end. The War Regulations, too, dealing with houses of ill fame, and particularly openwoman brothels, have been most effective in their general application. They have helped to rid the City of Auckland in no uncertain way of the one-woman-brothel pest, which was, unfortunately, so much in evidence previous to their introduction. It is to be hoped when the war is over and these regulations expire by effluxion of time that steps will be taken to have their provisions embodied in an Act of Parliament. By so doing an embargo will be placed on immorality, and prostitution will not be quite so remunerative an occupation as heretofore.

SUPERINTENDENT NORWOOD, WELLINGTON DISTRICT.

On the 6th December, 1916, I arrived at Wellington on transfer from Invercargill, and took over charge of the district.

The actual strength of the Force in this district as on the 31st March, 1917, was 166, viz.: Superintendent, 1 Inspector, 1 Sub-Inspector, 6 senior sergeants, 13 sergeants, 135 constables, I Chief Detective, 4 detective-sergeants, 2 detectives, I surgeon, 1 matron.

is 177, there being a shortage of 1 sergeant, 7 constables, and 3 detectives.

The authorized strength of the district has been increased by 1 sergeant, appointed to charge of the Wharf Police. This sergeant, with 6 constables, has been detailed to take up permanent duty on the waterfront, the use of a room having been obtained from the Harbour Board for a Police office. Prior to this arrangement being made this duty was performed by beat-duty constables, who were changed every fortnight. The present system has proved very satisfactory; it permits the men to thoroughly grasp the requirements of the traffic and become competent to cope with the police-work required to be done about this most important and busy portion of the city.

During the year 1 constable retired on superannuation, and 2 constables were dismissed;

16 constables resigned, the majority of them to proceed to the front.

The total number of all offences reported for the year ending 31st March, 1917, was 6,262. Of this number, 5,957 cases were dealt with by the Courts, 305 cases being undetected or abandoned for the want of sufficient evidence to prosecute. 172 cases were of an indictable nature and dealt with in the Supreme Court. Increases are under the following headings: Abscording from industrial schools, 83; common assaults, 36; furious riding and driving, 25; gaming offences, 32; keeping disorderly houses, 16; neglected and criminal children, 29; theft, 39; vagrancy, 28. The principal decreases were—Burglary, 11: disobeying orders of Court, 14; drunkenness, 782; failing to provide maintenance, 20; illegally on premises, 10; indecent exposure and behaviour, 20; malicious injury to property, 22; obscene language, 33; obstructing and resisting police, 29; sly-gree selling, 13 and resisting police, 29; sly-grog selling, 13.

It will be noticed that the greatest decrease under any individual heading is that for drunkenness, there being the substantial decrease of 782 cases for the year. Large decreases also appear in offences usually associated with drunkenness—viz., indecent behaviour, malicious injury to property, obscene language, and obstructing and resisting police. I ascribe this decrease of drunkenness to the result of the anti-shouting regulations recently brought into operation under the War Regulations Act, which have been the means of greatly decreasing disorderly conduct in public places by curtailing the consumption of liquor.

The conduct of all ranks has been generally good; in two cases constables charged with serious breaches of Police Regulations were dismissed, and in several other cases fines were inflicted.

The officers and sergeants throughout the district have maintained a good standard of discipline and zeal, and all ranks have cheerfully carried out extra duties imposed on them by the condition of war. There has been a considerable shortage of constables owing to so many resigning to go to the front and the difficulty in replacing them. As a consequence many of the men have been unable to obtain their annual leave. The large number of inquiries sent to the Police for attention by other Government Departments, with a reduced staff to cope with it, has made it impossible to relieve the men from their duties.

I beg to recommend an amendment to the Licensing Act in the following direction. At present it is an offence for persons under twenty-one years of age to be supplied with liquor by persons holding licenses under the Licensing Act, but this provision does not apply to the purchase of beer from breweries. As the law stands at present a person under twenty-one cannot obtain a glass of beer at an hotel, but he can purchase 2 gallons at a brewery. This latter custom is prevalent in no-license areas; youths usually subscribe 1s. each and purchase 2 gallons of beer, very often with disastrous results.

SUPERINTENDENT DWYER, CHRISTCHURCH DISTRICT.

The actual strength of the Force in the district on the 31st March, 1917, was 140, made up as follows: I Superintendent, 2 Sub-Inspectors, 3 senior sergeants, 13 sergeants, 110 constables, 1 Chief Detective, 5 detective-sergeants, 3 detectives, and 2 acting-detectives. In addition there were 2 matrons and 1 surgeon.

During the year I constable was dismissed, and 2 constables resigned for the purpose of joining the Expeditionary Forces. The Police Surgeon, Dr. Westenra, died, and Dr. Crooke was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The conduct of the sergeants and constables has, on the whole, been good. One sergeant was reduced in grade and sent back to the ranks, and 3 constables were fined for breaches of the regulations. A great deal of extra work has been imposed upon the police by the operation of the Military Service Act, and this has been carried out both cheerfully and well.

The number of offences reported during the year ending 31st December, 1916, was 3,978, as compared with 4,110 in 1915. Of the 3,978 offences reported, in 3,781 cases persons were apprehended or summoned. The principal increases in the various classes of offences during the year were—Burglary, 13; cruelty to animals, 19; disobeying orders of the Court, 114; gaming offences, 17; forgery, 8; neglected and criminal children, 19; sly-grog selling, 17; and thefts of all kinds, 89. The principal decreases were—Common assaults, 31; breaches of the peace, 24; drunkenness, 159; failing to provide for wives and children, 48; obscene and profane language, 24; and vagrancy, 82. The largest decrease is shown in drunkenness, and this can safely be put down to the restrictions placed on the sale of liquor by the anti-treating legislation.

SUPERINTENDENT WRIGHT, DUNEDIN DISTRICT.

The authorized strength on the 31st March, 1917, was—I Superintendent, I Sub-Inspector, 2 senior sergeants, 10 sergeants, 89 constables, 1 Chief Detective, 1 detective-sergeant, I detective-sergeant, 1 detective-sergeant tive, 1 matron, and 1 surgeon.

There has been no increase or decrease in the strength during the year, and the only increase I recommend for the coming year is one constable at Dunedin. This is necessary owing to the police having taken over the administration of the Gaol here, which takes the full time of two constables.

New quarters at Caversham have been built, and that station now is all that can be desired. At the Central Station the police have removed from the old quarters to the Gaol, which has been altered to suit, and now supplies ample accommodation for the present and future.

At South Dunedin we have taken over the old post-office, which is being converted into a convenient watch-house, office, &c., and will afford sufficient accommodation for years to come.

During the year 1 sergeant and 2 constables have retired on superannuation, 1 senior sergeant and 1 constable retired medically unfit, 6 constables resigned (3 of whom enlisted in the Expeditionary Force), and 1 sergeant died.

The conduct of the police in all branches has been excellent, and their evident desire to cope willingly with the enormous amount of extra work which has been thrown upon the Force in connection with the war has been most commendable. What with inquiries respecting returned soldiers, inquiries for shirkers and deserters, making inquiries for Military Service Boards, and many other inquiries too numerous to mention, the police have had a busy time.

The offence return for 1916 shows that 2,319 offences were reported, as against 2,417 for the previous year, showing a decrease of 98 offences. The decrease is principally accounted for under the following heads: Discharging firearms, 22; disobeying orders of Court, 20; drunkenness, 19; escaping from custody, 12; mischief, 13; opium offences, 16; and thefts, 81. There have been increases under the heads of—assaults, 12; assaults on police, 9; disorderly conduct, 11; forgery, 6; neglected and criminal children, 21; and obscene language, 12. There has been a marked decrease (78) in crimes involving dishonesty, which is very satisfactory; but sexual offences of all kinds show a total increase of 9 over the previous year, the figures being 17 for 1916, as against 8 for 1915.

Of the total number of offences reported over 96 per cent, were accounted for either by arrest or summons. Fifty-three persons were committed for trial, of whom 41 were subsequently convicted.

There have been no crimes during the year that call for special mention, and the district generally has maintained its reputation as a law-abiding well-conducted one.

Sly-grog selling, although no doubt carried on to a certain extent in some parts of the district, is not prevalent, and few complaints have been received. There were 7 prosecutions during the year, as compared with 8 the previous year, and the fines inflicted amounted to £41 12s., as against £145 in 1915.

The War Regulation dealing with houses of ill fame has proved a distinct help to the police in dealing with one-woman brothels, and I would suggest that it be embodied in the statute law.

Inspector Phair, Hamilton District.

The authorized strength of the district on the 31st March, 1917, was: 1 Inspector, 2 senior sergeants, 5 sergeants, 58 constables, I detective-sergeant, 2 district constables, and 3 Native constables.

During the past year the strength of the district was increased by one by the appointment of a second constable at Ngaruawahia. Further additions to the strength are required as under: Hamilton, 1 sectional sergeant and 1 constable; Frankton Junction, 1 constable; Rotorua, 1 constable; Whakatane, 1 constable; and Te Awamutu, 1 constable.

During the year the detective-sergeant was transferred from Thames to Hamilton, thus placing him in a central position from which he can more conveniently work the various parts of the district.

A sectional sergeant and another constable are urgently needed at Hamilton Station, as the work is increasing so fast that it is impossible for the senior sergeant to attend to office-work and the Court, and at the same time properly supervise the constables performing street duty. A second constable is also badly needed at each of the four stations aforesaid, so that proper attention may be given to the work of the respective subdistricts.

One constable was discharged during the year on resignation.

The offences return for 1916 shows that 1,871 offences were reported, as compared with 2,136 for the previous year, a decrease of 265. Increases appear under the following heads: Threatening behaviour, 10; arson, 7; common assault, 14; burglary, 21; counselling offences, 11; cruelty to animals, 12; mischief, 16; obscene language, 10; perjury, 7; theft of cattle, 6; theft of postal packets, 9. There were decreases in—Disorderly conduct, 10; drunkenness, 157; failing to provide, 23; false pretences, 13; gaming offences, 16; sly-grog selling, 30; vagrancy, 46.

Of the total number of offences reported, over 96 per cent, were detected or accounted for either by arrest or summons.

Most of the increases are of the usual class of offences met with in scattered country districts, where greater facilities exist for the commission of offences than in towns. These remarks apply more particularly to the 21 cases of burglary.

In respect to the decreases, the most noticeable is that in drunkenness, which shows a decrease of 157. This reduction is clearly attributable to the anti-shouting regulations.

Sly-grog selling is still giving the police in the King-country a good deal of trouble, although the illicit trade in liquor has not been carried on to the same extent as heretofore. During the year the sum of £1,111 was imposed in fines for the offence, of which £930 was imposed in the King-country. This shows a reduction of £664 as compared with the previous year.

The conduct of members of the Force in this district during the past year has been excellent (with one exception, since resigned). They have zealously performed their duties, and in no part of the district has there been the slightest friction with the public.

INSPECTOR McGrath, Napier District.

On the 31st March last the authorized strength of the district was 68 of all ranks. The total is made up as follows: 1 Inspector, 1 Sub-Inspector, 2 senior sergeants, 5 sergeants, 54 constables, 1 detective-sergeant, 2 detectives, 2 district constables.

During the year the following increases were authorized: 1 sergeant at Tokomaru Bay, 1 constable at Te Araroa, and 1 constable at Wairoa.

The placing of a sergeant at Tokomaru Bay has proved a great success, and with his co-operation and assistance a more satisfactory state of affairs already prevails on the East Coast. Ngatapa Station has been closed, as a constable is no longer needed at that station owing to the railway-works at Ngatapa being practically stopped.

The total number of offences reported during the year 1916 was 1,703, as compared with 2,169 for year 1915, showing a decrease of 466 offences. Of the 1,703 offences reported, 1,613 resulted in prosecutions, leaving a total of 90 undetected offences. The following are the principal increases and decreases: Increases—False pretences, 12; indecent publications, 3; theft (attempted), 4; theft by servants, 4; vagrancy, 6. Decreases--Abusive, insulting, and threatening behaviour, 25; burglary, breaking into shops and dwellings, 15; drunkenness, 226; failing to provide for wives and families, 14; forgery and uttering, 7; gaming offences, 33; manslaughter, 3; obscene and profane language, 10; obstructing and resisting police, 6; theft (undescribed), 70; theft from dwellings, 11; trespass, 10.

The conduct of the police throughout the year has been good, and both the uniform and detective branches have performed their duties in a highly satisfactory manner.

I have to again recommend that the licensing law be amended in so far as it applies to Natives. I suggest that a Native be placed on the same footing as a prohibited person in so far that it be made an offence for a Native to be found with liquor in his possession; and, further, that authority be granted the police to search Natives who are suspected of having liquor in their possession, and to seize the liquor when found, without warrant.

In the Maori prohibited district of Horouta it is unlawful to sell or supply liquor to Natives on or off licensed premises, but Natives may frequent the bars or any part of such licensed premises. I would recommend that it be made an offence for a Native to be found in a bar and for a licensee to allow a Native in a bar in such district.

INSPECTOR HENDREY, WANGANUI DISTRICT.

The authorized strength of the district is I Inspector, 2 Sub-Inspectors, 3 senior sergeants, 2 detective-sergeants, 6 sergeants, 73 constables, and I district constable.

An increase of 1 constable is required at Ohakune, which is a growing centre, and in the near future a constable will be required at Halcombe, close to which township large freezingworks are being erected. When these works are completed a large number of men will find constant employment, and the population in and around Halcombe will increase largely.

constant employment, and the population in and around Halcombe will increase largely.

Three constables resigned during the year in this district.

The offences return shows a total of 2,376 offences reported during the year, out of which 2,299 offences were detected and dealt with. This shows an aggregate net decrease of 207 on the number of offences reported in the preceding year. No very serious crimes were reported during the year. The principal increases were: Burglary, breaking and entering, &c., 19; furious riding and driving, 21; indecent exposure, &c., 20; mischief, 16; and vagrancy offences, 28. The principal decreases were: Abusive and threatening behaviour, 18; breaches of the peace, 17; disobeying orders of Court and summons, 20; drunkenness, 201; obscene and profane language, 18. The decrease in drunkenness is no doubt largely due to the War Regulations prohibiting treating. Regulations prohibiting treating.

With the exception of two constables who were fined for neglecting duty, the conduct of the men has been excellent. The sergeants and constables have shown a keen interest in their duties, a large amount of work has been done in inquiring re returned soldiers, passports, keeping the alien population under close observation, and the collection of agricultural statistics, &c.

Notwithstanding the vigilance of police, sly-grog selling is still carried on in the Mokau, Awakino, Ohakune, and Raetihi districts. The police have been very successful in dealing with offenders, and during the year fines amounting to £265 have been imposed.

INSPECTOR CRUICKSHANK, GREYMOUTH DISTRICT.

The strength of the Force at the 31st March last was 1 Inspector, 1 senior sergeant, 4 sergeants, 35 constables, and I detective; total, 42; the strength having been increased during the year by 1 detective. There were 3 constables short of authorized strength.

One constable was retired on superannuation, and I constable was called upon to resign. The conduct of members of the Force on the whole has been good, very few punishments being inflicted.

There were 571 offences reported during the year, being a decrease of 263 on the number reported the previous year, the decrease being principally under the heading of drunkenness and other offences not of a serious nature.

INSPECTOR FOURY, INVERCARGILL DISTRICT.

On the 31st March, 1917, the authorized strength of all ranks was as follows: 1 Inspector, 1 senior sergeant, 3 sergeants, 35 constables, 1 detective-sergeant.

An additional constable has been stationed at Invercargill during the year. One constable was discharged on resignation.

The conduct of all ranks of the Force in this district has been good. In only one instance has a fine been inflicted for breach of the Police Regulations.

During the year ending the 31st March, 1917, 735 offences were reported, as against 867 in the preceding year. Of the 735 cases reported, 713 resulted in prosecutions, including 25 cases committed for trial at the Supreme Court. There were increases under the following headings: Failing to provide maintenance, 7; false pretences, 9; mischief, 11; stone-throwing, 11; thefts, 24; thefts from dwellings, 5; thefts of post letters, 9. The increase in the charges of mischief, thefts, and thefts from dwellings is accounted for by an unusual number of youths who were dealt with in the Juvenile Court. A general decrease covers all the other classes of offences to the extent of 145, the most notable decrease being under that of drunkenness-74 cases less than last year.
