TO THE FALLEN.

They sleep beneath no immemorial yews,
Their resting place no temple arches
hem;
No Blazoned shaft of graven tablet woos
Men's praise—and yet we shall remember them.

The unforgetting clouds shall drop their tears:
The winds in ceaseless lamentation wail,
For God's white knights are lying on their biers,
Who pledged their services to restore the grail.

They gave their lives to make the whole world free;
They reckoned not to what flag they were assigned,
The Starry Banner, Cross, or Fleur de
Lis—
Their sacrifice was made for all mankind.

For them the task is done, the strife is stilled;
No more shall care disturb, nor zeal condemn;
And where the larger good has been fulfilled,
In coming years we shall remember them.

How can the world their deeds forget?
In France
White crosses everywhere lift pallid hands,
Like silent sentinels with sword and lance,
To keep their memory safe for other lands.

What need have they for holy sepulture?
Within the hearts of men is hallowed ground—
A sanctuary where they rest secure,
And with Love's immortality are crowned.

And far-off voices of the future sing,
"They shall remain in memory's dia-dem,"
And winds of promise still are whispering
That same refrain, "We shall remember them."

The prefectorial elections in Korea, in which Koreans for the first time are eligible to election, resulted in the return of 46 Koreans and 112 Japanese.

The plebiscite concerning Constantine will be taken on December 5. The Venizelists have decided to abstain from voting.
