WE WANT YOUR BUSINESS!

Remember, it costs money to advertise
now, and it's up to the people of Southland to remember us when there's any business in these lines we've mentioned.
Our carts will call at your home on receipt of an order or a ring to 101 on the 'phone.

BEFORE ACTION.

We always had our work at night.
I wondered why we had to be so sly.
I wondered why we couldn't have our fight
Under the open sky.

I wondered why I always felt so cold.
I wondered why the orders seemed so slow
So slow to come, so whisperingly told,
So whisperingly low.

I wondered if my packing straps were
tight,
And wondered why I wondered. . . .
Sound went wild. . . .
An order came. . . . I ran into the night,
Wondering why I smiled.

THE SOLDIER.

Here in the noisy night
Is his delight
Where maxims pour
Their thudding lead
Upon the ground
And on the shore.
He revels in the sound
And lies among the dead.
Here where the sniper lies
Beneath the skies
In hungry wait;
And gasping shells
Disgorge red death.
This is my fate:
To love war's rhythmic breath
And war's discordant knells.
Here on the parapet
His foes he met
See where they sleep
In battered lines.
Here lies his bed
So long and deep
And on his broken head
A shaft from Heaven shines.

A strange accident, which terminated fatally, occurred at Tinirote, 30 miles north of Wairoa, last week-end. A Native named Richard Grant went out pig-hunting and after killing a pig set about cleaning it. In doing so he threw odds and ends of meat to his dogs. His loaded rifle was leaning against a tree, and the dogs, in fighting over the meat, dislodged
the rifle, causing the charge to explode.
The bullet entered Grant's left arm, and though the wound was not apparently serious complications set in and the man died three days later.

ABOUT CHEESE!

THIS is an Advertisement about

"THE GRAND" GENTLEMEN'S OUTFITTERS.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS.

We extend to the public our heartiest season's greetings and take this opportunity to thank them for their very liberal support during the past year. We have at all times endeavoured to pay strict attention to our customers' requirements and, when asked, give them our very best advice in purchasing their requirements.
The wonderful increase in our business is proof to us that our endeavour has not been in vain.

During the coming year we hope to have a continuance of your liberal support, and you can be assured of our very best attention right down to the smallest details.
