

Steep slopes, a raw wound. Forest Service chipwood logging has stripped away both forest and soil, leaving bedrock exposed. This logging was taking place in the North Westland wildlife corridor until very recently. Photo: Kevin Smith