

A photograph of a forest floor. In the foreground, a large, light-colored log lies horizontally, its surface showing signs of decay and moss. To the right of the log, a dense cluster of bright green ferns with long, feathery fronds dominates the scene. The background is a dark, dense forest with more trees and foliage, creating a sense of depth and a lush, untamed environment.

“Worth infinitely more standing and untouched than hacked down and woodchipped” – David Bellamy