

A large flock of white seabirds, possibly albatrosses, with black caps, are captured in various stages of flight across a clear blue sky. Below them, a sandy beach is populated by many more of the same birds, some standing and others nesting. In the background, a calm body of water stretches across the middle ground, with a line of green trees and rolling hills visible on the far shore under a bright, sunny sky.

Summer Holiday