

CANADIAN GIRLS ENJOY TH

Camp Tanamakoon, Algonquin Park, Ontario

"What do those girls think they're shooting at?"

ONE more thing that is going to happen after the war, if we listen to the optimists, is the organisation on a large scale of physical and recreational education in New Zealand. To help in paving the way, Miss Margaret Dunning has been brought out from Canada to fill a national appointment with the Y.W.C.A. as Physical and Recreational Instructress. She is a graduate of the Margaret Eaton School of Physical Education, University of Toronto, Canada. She is also Head Counsellor of Camp Tanamakoon, in the woods and lakes of Northern Ontario, one of the best-equipped camps for girls in North America (the photographs on this page were taken there). But if I hadn't known who she was, I would have guessed at once that she lived an outdoor life, because her skin was glowing and her eyes were clear. What surprised me most
