THE SIGN OF A GOOD

You can tell a good book by the imprint publisher. If he has been careful to publish the best books, and has built up a reputation for quality and value, then you can be sure of the book. For this reason "THE SIGN OF THE RAUPO" is the sign of a good book. This simple sign, so familiar to New Zealand, with its little clump of native fern, the imprint of "The House of Reed," publishes the best good books. Remember "THE SIGN OF THE RAUPO"—when buying books. They are known to all New Zealand. Your bookseller, if he is a good seller, stocks many of them and you can see them on his shelves. If he is not able to supply the book you want, ask him to write to Reed. He'll know where to get it. Here is a list of books published by A. H. & A. W. Reed. See them at your bookshop, or order them from the publishers. PLEASE ADD 1d IN TARIFF FOR POSTAGE. THREE OR MORE BOOKS SUPPLIED POST FREE.
