SIGN OF A GOOD BOOK

Can tell a good book by the imprint of the publisher. If he has been careful to publish only the best books, and has built up a reputation for quality and value, then you can be sure of the books in his hands for this reason "THE SIGN OF THE RAUPO" is the sign of a good book. This simple sign, so typical of New Zealand, with its little clump of native reeds, is the imprint of "The House of Reed," publishers of New Zealand books. Remember "THE SIGN OF THE RAUPO" when buying books. They are known throughout New Zealand. Your bookseller, if he is a good bookshop, stocks many of them and you can see them on his shelves. If he is not able to supply the book you want, ask him to write to Reed. He'll know what to do. See a list of books published by A. H. and A. W. Reed. See them at your bookshop, or order direct from the publishers. PLEASE ADD 1d IN THE SHILLING FOR POSTAGE. THREE OR MORE WILL BE POSTED FREE.
