To National Savers

with money
falling due . . .

All that you invested in your National Savings Account up to June 30th, 1943, is due for repayment. You can withdraw it at any time up to September 30th this year . . . plus interest.

Are you going to exercise your right to collect it?

Or will you say to yourself that it's still doing a war job and leave it there earning 3%?

Remember that while it's in your National Savings Account it's still helping to finance the war, still helping to relieve the pressure on prices and keep New Zealand financially strong.

What need you do to keep it there? Do nothing! Then it continues to be invested at 3% for another twelve months and will be available again on the 30th June next year. Why not leave it there and let it grow?

SAVING IS HAVING . . . build up your "Victory Nest-Egg" for use when the war is over and goods again become plentiful.
