- FEB.: "TWO-IN-ONE"—by John Steinbeck. Two outstanding novels by the famous author of "The Grapes of Wrath."
- MAR.: "CHARLES DICKENS"—by Dame Una Pope-Hennessy. The first life of Dickens since the publication of the "Nonesuch Letters." An honest straight-forward Biography.
- APRIL: "THE PURSUIT OF LOVE"—by Nancy Mitford. The young Radletts escaped as soon as they could from their peculiar world, presided over by their eccentric father.
- MAY: "THE ROBE"—by Lloyd C. Douglas. A deeply moving novel depicting the rise of Christianity through the personality of a young Roman tribune, reluctant executioner of Jesus, who gains possession of the Galilean's robe and becomes a fervent convert.
- JUNE: "YES FAREWELL"—by Michael Burn. An impressive first book by a prisoner of war providing a resolute and disturbingly frank addition to the literature of war captivity.
- JULY: "THAT LADY"—by Kate O'Brien. The story of the Princess of d'Eboli, who fought a duel as a page at the age of fourteen, retained a beauty great enough to hold the twisted passion of Phillip II. of Spain and to enable her, after her husband's death, to inspire fidelity to the wayward Antonio Perez.
