

LADY TOTHILL drives a London Ambulance
—but Pond's two creams
keep her skin radiant

QUESTION TO LADY TOTHILL:
Driving an Ambulance takes you out into all kinds of weather. Don't you find it harder to keep your skin flawlessly lovely?

ANSWER:
Yes, I'm doing vigorous outdoor work now, and it is hard on my complexion. But Pond's two creams are a splendid standby. They keep my skin in perfect condition, and have completely counteracted any tendency to develop lines and wrinkles as a result of eye strain.

Lady Cynthia Tothill is the only sister of the fifth Earl of Bandon. Before the war she was keenly interested in the ballet and travelling. To-day she drives a London Ambulance.

You can follow the same beauty methods as the World's loveliest women—Pond's Two Creams

For thorough cleansing use Pond's Cold Cream every night and morning and during the day whenever you change your make-up. Pat it on generously, leave it on a few minutes, then wash it off with cleansing tissues. Pond's Cold Cream removes every bit of dust and stale make-up ... keeps your skin flawless. Always use Pond's Vanishing Cream as a powder base and skin softener. This fluffy, delicate cream holds powder smoothly for hours and protects your skin from the roughening effects of sun and wind.

Sold at all stores and chemists in 9½ tubes for your handbags, 1½ and 2½ jars for your dressing table.
(Prices including Sales Tax.)

FREE! Mail this Coupon to-day with four 1d. stamps in sealed envelope to cover postage, packing, etc., for free tubes of Pond's Two Creams—Cold and Vanishing. You will receive also five samples of Pond's "Glare-proof Face Powder."

POND'S DEPT. (Z.A.), P.O. Box 1495, WELLINGTON.

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____

WOMEN TO THE FORE Talented New Zealanders

NEW ZEALAND has exported a large quantity of talent, but it is often forgotten that New Zealand women have made an even greater name for themselves abroad than New Zealand men. In the admission of women to universities, for ex-

G. B. Lancaster, and Ngaio Marsh are writers of whom any nation might be proud. And the tragic figure of Robin Hyde, limping through war-torn China and eating rice with the poorest of Chinese coolies, will haunt the memory of New Zealand women writers for a generation to come.

Then there is Miss Annie Whitelaw, former headmistress of the Auckland Girls' Grammar School, who became head of Wycombe Abbey, one of the foremost girls' schools in England. And finally, of course, there is Jean Batten.

The successes that New Zealand women have achieved in various fields throughout the world will be discussed in a talk from 1YA at 3.0 p.m. on Sunday, January 26, in the series "New Zealand Brains Abroad."

Spencer Digby photograph
ROBIN HYDE
Will haunt the memory ...

ample, New Zealand was in the van, and Kate Edgar was actually the first woman in the British Empire to take a Bachelor of Arts degree. Another New Zealand girl was the first woman graduate in a British University to take a Master of Arts with honours.

The greatest name, of course, is that of Katherine Mansfield, who has attained international fame.

In the theatre there is Marie Ney and Rosina Buckman, but it is in the literary sphere that New Zealand women have shone. Jessie Mackay, Eileen Duggan,

Vale, Amy Johnson

Amy Johnson is dead. That dauntless young eagle whose daring and courage carried her along the sky lines of the world. No ordinary eyes, hers. Puzzled, a little seeking, with small lines etched about them from constant scanning of limitless horizons. Her greatest flights were accomplished alone. In the terrifying silence of a world moved only by the beat of bird's wings.

Great were her deeds. Long live the memory of her imperishable courage.

She has passed—as she, herself, in her secret dreams may have wished to go. High in the air, with the beat of the propeller in her ears—in the clean blue world she knew and understood.

No earthly tomb awaits her. She sleeps in the mighty waters beneath the night and the distant stars. Above, in some higher sphere, her restless, seeking spirit still flies on.

Vale, Amy Johnson.

A QUEEN AND TWO ANNOUNCERS. Miss Joan Young, seen here with Kingi Tahiri and Rex Walden of 2ZB, has been chosen as the Public Services Queen in the Victory Queen Carnival in aid of Wellington's quota of the All Purposes Patriotic Appeal. She represents the banks, insurance companies, Post and Telegraph and Police Departments, local bodies and Government departments. Miss Young, who is a daughter of J. G. Young, Director of the Post and Telegraph Department, works in the Navy Department.

RUSMA
KILLS SUPERFLUOUS HAIR
Results guaranteed. Consultations free and confidential. Send stamped addressed envelope.
FLORENCE HULLEN C.M.D. Dept. 1, Bank of N.Z. Chmrs. Manners St., Wellington.

FOR ONLY 2d!

For only 2d. you can secure the latest Specialty Trading Coy. catalogue illustrating Revolving Clothes Lines, Tall-Boys, Step Ladders, Babies' Drop-side Cots, Kitchen Stools, Plunket Cots, etc. This catalogue should be in every home. It will save you pounds, therefore don't delay. Send 2d. to-day to Dept. L, Specialty Trading Co., Haining Street, Wellington.