

NORTH AFRICAN THEATRE

WITH North Africa so much in the news, there will special interest in a series of recorded talks, now circulating round the National Stations, by Dr. Merlin Minshall, an Englishman now in New Zealand. Dr. Minshall, an architect by profession and a Doctor of Philosophy, talked about Africa from the BBC. The studies of African life on this page are from his own camera.

A talk about a trip Dr. Minshall made from Lake Chad to Tripoli, over the ground recently covered by the Fighting French expedition, is now going round the National Stations, and another, "A Glance at Algiers," will be heard from 2YA at 11.0 p.m. on Tuesday, February 23.
