only when the injured person feels no desire to retaliate when injured. Gandhi does not possess the spirit of Christ, and as a Hindu, he is only practising self-control. When he feels that he has been injured, he tries to refrain from feeling hate, but he does retaliate—not with guns, but with something other than love. It is easier for the Indian to practise self-control than for the Westerner, because the Indian has through the centuries suffered the injustices of Hinduism silently.

Influence of Women

"Has the general ferment of thought in India had much effect on the position of Indian women?" we asked.

"In the towns there are women's organisations which are sometimes very well supported. They organise campaigns for equal rights, civil rights, and so on. They also do good work on some of the many social problems—that of the beggars, for instance. But the women in the villages are very ignorant, and they hold back any sort of progress—this is much truer of the peasant women than of the peasant men. In the big towns you would find quite a large percentage of women attending public meetings, but this is not so in the country districts."

The Ear Behind The Microphone

MANY people would probably envy Mrs. F. A. Anderson. But others in the know might be more inclined to wonder that she keeps her sanity. Day in and day out she sits in her office listening to radio serials and feature programmes. And she cannot switch them off when she wants to. For Mrs. Anderson is doing a job that is essential to the Commercial Broadcasting Service and one that until a year ago was done by a man.

"My job is to listen to all features before they are put over the air from the CBS," she told The Listener. "Each one has to be timed exactly. I have to listen carefully for anything unsuitable, and make notes of anything needing cutting or alteration. There is no chance of 40 winks on the job, either, because I have to hear every serial story and write a resumé of it. This is done partly in order that the sponsors may know what the serials are about, but also comes in useful if, for instance, a disc gets broken. You can't just hop a disc. You might find that the heroine has disappeared, or that the villain had committed suicide. But if I know just what was on the disc, I can supply a synopsis and thus bridge the gap."

"Don't you find that your thoughts wander, especially if you've got no real interest in what you are listening to?"

"No, I find that listening just becomes a habit. At first it was hard to concentrate, but I soon found that if I let my mind wander, I wasted time and had to play the record over again. That soon cured me."

"Who suggests the presentation—selects the music and so on?"

"I do that, too, and there is a lot of work in it. Sometimes it takes me a long time to find the tune that I think is just right for a serial."

"And after the war?"

"I will be very glad when I can get back to a life where you need turn on the radio only when you actually want to listen."

It's nice to hear folks say
HOW WELL YOU LOOK TODAY!

Being clean inside is more important to how you look and feel than being clean outside. Clear eyes, clear skin and clean breath are the signs and symbols of health. You won't have them if constipation's poisons are sabotaging your system.

San-Bran is a natural corrective for constipation. It is not a medicine; for its function is simply to replace the bulk which refining of foods has removed from modern diet. San-Bran is nature's own safeguard of correct and regular elimination.

TRY IT AND SEE.

San-Bran by itself makes a pleasant dish. San-Bran mixed with other foods—with stewed fruits, junket or puddings is all delicious difference. San-Bran added with the other ingredients in baking gives cakes and biscuits new, nutty taste appeal.

So try San-Bran for a week—a fortnight. Follow the directions on the package. Then take stock of yourself. Note whether laughter comes easier to you—whether people say "How well you look to-day." A short trial will show you how much good health is stored in a packet of San-Bran.
