THE girl on our cover is two years old. When the war ends she may be five or six—carrying a little bag to school. When the last war ended her parents were at school—a little older than she is to-day but as little able to plumb the future. A grandfather, who is still living, could have served in the South African war, and a grand-uncle did. In short, her background is three wars in forty-three years, two of them involving the whole world. She was born in war, she is growing up in war, and what has happened to her has happened to millions of girls right round the globe. But like her, they are as innocent of their past as of their future. They do not know that military uniform is not normal dress for men and a very recent innovation for women. It has not occurred to them to ask why their fathers are so seldom at home and why their mothers and grand-mothers are so often in tears. They are children of the storm, preserved from the knowledge of it by its universality and duration. And even their parents are afraid to tell them — almost afraid to remember—that the world was once a different place and life almost as sunny for grown-ups as their youth and innocence permits it still to be for them. The question is: Can we save the world in time to give them a normal girlhood, and preserve it long enough to guarantee them a normal womanhood? To the first question the answer is now Yes. Victory is on the way; and victory for the United Nations means food and shelter and sunshine and laughter for the girl on our cover. Whether it will continue to mean freedom from want and freedom from tyranny, freedom to marry by her own choice, and a carry-over of all those freedoms to her children, is more obscure. The answer is Yes if we have learnt during the last forty-three years as well as suffered. It is No if we are too dull to learn and too selfish for sacrifice. For we shall not get some of our privileges back—those that were mere luxury and self-centred power—and we shall not recover and retain our liberties unless we pay the price for them.

December

At Home

YOU who are abroad,
Perhaps you would like to see us as we are to-day.

THE grass is growing thickly on top of the air-raid shelters. In spite of Keep Out notices the children are playing round their doors. The pits we dug for ourselves in our gardens are all filled in now, and we've planted potatoes and silver beet and radishes.

No terror has struck at us from the skies. None of us have had to carry our children in fear.

crouching low under the hedges. We haven't had to see the soft limbs quiver or the clear eyes change.

Any time we hear an aeroplane we know it's from Auckland, or Nelson, or some other place, or else it's just one of the boys from the 'drome that is learning to fly.

In all the gardens down our street there are roses.

It's been a great year for roses, and they flaunt themselves rather all up and down the paths and under the windows.

Women who are going to have babies put on flowered smocks and walk in the sunshine.

The girls from the offices don't wear hats.

Their hair is long and fine and curled at the ends.

We still love, dance, hate, get divorced. Now that butter has been rationed, we wonder what we're going to do for Christmas.

We feel clever if we save a coupon here and there by making one new dress out of two old ones.

Summer is on us at last and we buy sandals, and white dresses, and those whose figures can stand it get into slacks. We aren't any wiser or better or kinder.

And we aren't any more selfish or hateful or sanctimonious than we were before you went away. We're not changed at all, not the way you will be.

by the time you come back. Perhaps you feel we're getting all the ha'pence and you're getting all the kicks. Perhaps you're right.

But perhaps if you remember the whining bomb and blasting shell And if you could see them

The grasses growing undisturbed over the air-raid shelters and the pits we dug sprouting carrots and parsnips and silver beet, you'd feel all right about it. If you could see the women in their smocks in the sunshine.

If you could see the roses. If you can realise that children's eyes out here are still unclouded.

Then perhaps you who are abroad will realise why you went and what we think about it.

TO ALL READERS

THIS issue contains programmes for eight days—January 3 to January 10 inclusive. The reason is that our NEXT issue may arrive a day later than usual, owing to delivery delays which we cannot control. But do not suppose that it will not arrive at all. It will. We hope in fact that it will arrive at the normal time, but we have thought it better to play safe than have some of our readers feel sorry.

NEW ZEALAND LISTENER, DECEMBER 31

GREETINGS FOR THE NEW YEAR

From the Rt. Hon. P. Fraser,
P.C., M.P., Prime Minister

Spencer Digby photograph

I GLADLY join with readers of "The New Zealand Listener" in expressing gratitude for New Zealand's record of achievement in defence of the principles of peace and goodwill.

The fifth Christmas in the tumult of world war brought to New Zealand a gift in the form of greater reason than ever for continuance of resolute effort to maintain liberty and progress.

The cause of the United Nations in their conflict with the forces of evil steadily prospers. It goes forward with increasing strength.

All the ruthless enemies of freedom are not now so much fighting to extend their earlier harsh conquests of peace-loving nations as they are struggling desperately to avert a retributive defeat. Their arrogance has slumped to anxiety. There is fear behind their ferocity.

Here in this fortunate land we could all enjoy the happiness of the Christmas festival. The country is still bountiful and blessed with freedom from the material havoc of war.

Moreover, we can look across the fourth year of war with grateful pride. Our soldiers, sailors, airmen and army nurses have maintained a high standard of courage. They have been faithful in strenuous duty, and have set a noble example in splendid service. The people on the home front have played their part well in supporting their armed forces in far countries.

As a result of united effort, we can all look forward to the New Year with renewed confidence in ultimate victory for the United Nations.

The need of fighting on with all our resources remains the first duty of the nation. In giving hard blows, we must also be able to take them, for the enemy is not yet a spent force. Yet the knowledge that the whole community must share in service and such sacrifices as war always exacts did not chill the joy of Christmas.

On the contrary, the opportunities of translating the spirit of Christmas into deeds which the coming year will bring in still further sacrifice and service, particularly for the purpose of helping the people of Britain, should be welcomed gladly by all.

Even in wintry lands in the Old World and also in the steaming heat of tropical jungles, our servicemen and intrepid nurses within sight and sound of carnage celebrated, perhaps in a grim way, the sentiment of the Christmas season. And we can be sure that although their thoughts and hearts were with their kinsfolk here at home, they did not relax their vigilance.

So it should also be with the people in this land of relative peacefulness and good fortune.

To all our armed forces everywhere, to their gallant comrades, and to all citizens, I extend warm greetings and wishes for their happiness in the New Year.

From the Hon. D. Wilson,
M.L.C., Minister of Broadcasting

S. P. Andrew photograph

THE year 1943 has been chiefly notable for the great improvement in the war situation on all fronts, and 1944 will be a year of planning, not only for final victory, but for national reconstruction and the rehabilitation into industry and commerce of all those whose wartime duties have taken them away from their pre-war civil functions.

Apart from the most important matter of material rehabilitation, in which radio will, of course, play its part, it is recognised that social and cultural developments must form an important factor in the successful readjustment of the community to post-war conditions.

Modern broadcasting has utility and entertainment values which have never before been at the disposal of mankind, and when at the end of the war the further marvel of television is added to the present-day almost-perfect reproduction of the human voice and of musical instruments, then indeed will open up such vistas of enjoyment and culture as have hitherto been the prerogative of a fortunate few only.

The importance of radio in the modern world is such that kings and governors, premiers and military commanders seek its aid to promulgate laws and regulations to their own people, and to declare conditions of war and peace to their enemies. By its agency the thought and action of the community can be unified or dominated (for good or ill), to an extent never before possible in the history of the world.

Here in New Zealand we aim, by the agency of radio, to seat the whole of the people in the gallery of Parliament, to bring to all citizens a knowledge of what happens in the town hall, and to widen the walls of the concert chamber so that New Zealand's own talent may be heard not only in this Dominion but also by people far beyond this nation's frontiers.

To all members of the Broadcasting Service—National and Commercial—many thanks for the manner in which you have singly or collectively helped to keep up the morale of the people of New Zealand during the days of anxiety and stress, and to all the 373,000 listeners who, by their forbearance in difficult times, have made our tasks easier and more pleasant, a very happy New Year. And may 1944 bring peace to a troubled world.

SOME OF THE BIG ONES GOT AWAY

Interviews Of The Year Recalled

BY convention, this is the season for forward-looking: at New Year we toy with good resolutions and speak with real feeling of our hopes for the coming year. But "The Listener" proposes for the moment to be perverse, and to look backwards. The members of its staff have occasionally been in unusual places, and met unusual people since last New Year's Day, and they have contributed to its pages their reports of interviews that took place successfully and tales of interviews that didn't come off, conversations with all sorts of people, including the First Lady of the United States of America, and even with the Monkeys in the Zoo; with a missionary from India and a yachtsman from the Argentine.

TO all of these interesting subjects, all of whom had something to say, and most of whom said it very graciously, we now offer our wishes for a happy 1944.

To Vito Dumas Argentine yachtsman, who claims relationship with Alexandre Dumas, but who is picturesque enough in his own right—he sailed from Buenos Aires to Capetown, from Capetown to Wellington, alone in a 31-foot yacht. He arrived here hungry, thirsty, and lightly bearded, after 104 days at sea, without even a radio. He spoke very little English, but people were kind to him, and he was friendly to The Listener. And there is in The Listener office now an autographed copy of a book (in Spanish, unfortunately) which he wrote after a similar journey across the Atlantic. Senor Dumas spent a few weeks here, airing his mildewed clothes and re-lining his stomach, and then he bravely set sail again in a real Wellington northerly. Months later we heard that he was safe in Buenos Aires again. Salud y pesetas, Senor Dumas!

To N. C. Tritton, a BBC emissary who had come to learn, not to inform, and who spoke most guardedly of the BBC's policies.

Two War Correspondents

These three were all interviewed in our issue of January 15. A week later we found ourselves talking to an old companion of "the road," Osmar White, with whom we had once sat at press tables in meeting rooms and council chambers where the names of journalists already famous overseas were carved, though we little knew then that he was to carve out his own name years later as a war correspondent in the Pacific Zone. All his experience as a journalist has not been in vain, for Osmar White told us that he will teach his two-year-old daughter to read, but not to write. He had both his ankles broken "owing to enemy action" not so long ago, but now, we understand, he is well again.

VITO DUMAS
104 days alone in a yacht

Following the same calling as Osmar White was Robin Miller, a New Zealander accredited to the U.S. Command in the South Pacific, who witnessed all or part of five campaigns—Libya, Greece, Crete, Libya again, and Guadalcanal; was twice rescued by the Royal Navy from German-occupied territory; and had flown with bombing raids against Germans and Japanese.

W. Bankes Amery, C.B.E., was principal assistant secretary to the British Ministry of Food. His subject was food, and he would bite at nothing else; he told us how radio was saving the food situation in England by changing the people's eating habits by sheer persuation, and doing it at top speed, to beat Hitler's submarines. Since he left, we have had letters from Mr. Amery, seeking copies of The Listener of March 12, and copies of the photograph we had taken. A Happy New Year, Mr. Amery, and we are glad you liked the photograph.

To Dorothy Helmrich, Australian-born lieder-singer of the first rank, who arrived in Wellington not knowing anyone, and was so lonely that she went to five films in her first few days there, until The Listener discovered her, and her charming friendliness, and her taste for black coffee.

A Missionary

To Aldine Lantis, a charming American Methodist Missionary returning from India, where she said, "the trouble is largely misunderstanding."

A seaman, an accountant, and a writer of radio features was Francis Renner, who came here on the Finnish sailing ship Pamir, which was interned earlier in the war and taken over by New Zealanders. A happy New Year, Mr. Renner, should you happen to be on our side of the date line at this moment!

To Michael Traub, Zionist delegate who is here seeking the support of public opinion for the Jewish national home in Palestine. "Sympathy," said Dr. Traub, "is not enough."

ROWENA MEYER
Eight years in Russia

To the Monkeys in the Zoo, who appeared to our contributor "J" altogether too much like ourselves. To Rowena Meyer, who had been in Moscow, and was on her way back to America after eight years of teaching English in Soviet Russia. She found us living in "unexampled luxury," and said we "just don't know what shortage and hardship can be." But then that was last July, wasn't it, Miss Meyer? You, yourself, wouldn't know on which side your bread was buttered if you came again now.

And to three musicians now in uniform who were interviewed in that same issue of July 16—Peter Cooper, from Christchurch, now playing to the troops "somewhere in the bush" in Australia, and Harry Aronson, a New Yorker, whom war has brought to these shores—both pianists. Also the bass-baritone, P.F.C. Ray Baber, U.S.M.C., who sang over the ZB's.

To two more musicians—Artie Shaw, swing-band leader, recluse, and Beethoven lover, who successfully fended us off, and made us feel like any American journalist wanting to get the low-down on his marriage to Jerome Kern's daughter. We hope you enjoyed hearing Beethoven's Sonata, Opus 111, in Wellington, Mr. Shaw. We would like to have heard it with you, though we are not quite so sure about your swing band. And Terry Vaughan, who led the Kiwi Concert Party, and told us how he had vindicated good music, and had proved that "you don't need to cheapen it," when playing to our men in the Middle East.

Those were all the musicians—and from music we went to munitions, where we found L. W. V. Thunder, and that really was his name. Furthermore, he said he was a descendant of the family whose illustrious forebear became the hero of a current popular serial. Mr. Thunder is in the Munitions Section of the Railway Department, and his aunt has a flag that was given to the Duke of Monmouth in 1685.

When Fortune Frowned

Then there was Charles Edmondson, representing the paper Fortune. Mr. Edmondson was reticent. He knew what journalists were like. But didn't you form those impressions in your own country, Mr. Edmondson? Nevertheless, we wish you good fortune, for we got a story, even if you didn't help us with it much.

An American who gave us the most important interview of the year, was also one who had reason to know journalists. But then she knew what to do with them: a British journalist was once granted a special interview with her and thought he had an exclusive story, but next day he found that it was she who had been interviewing him, and her story was being read all over the United States. Her name was Eleanor Roosevelt, and we found her friendly, natural and gracious.

Within more recent memory we talked with another traveller from the Pacific—the Rt. Rev. W. H. Baddeley, Bishop of Melanesia, who told us how the Church works and teaches and fights in the islands. And with Lieut.-Col. F. Baker, D.S.O., who, thanks to plastic surgery, can talk to 100 people in the street without one of them suspecting that one cheek and part of his tongue were torn away by a bullet. But that was not Colonel Baker's claim to our interest—he is Director of Rehabilitation, and he is a big man in a big job. We remember his frankness, and the honesty with which he talked of problems he has not solved—yet.

And only the other day there were our Canadian colleagues, Messrs. Ford, Richardson and Paré, Canadian Press representatives, with whom we discussed New Zealand beer.

There were also the ones who got away: L. W. Brockington, advisor of Empire affairs to the Ministry of Information, who told us to put our questions in writing and he would answer them that way. We withdrew regretfully but politely. And Gene Tunney; he had an appointment with "Mac, of 2YD," whom we had deputed to face the monster in the flesh, but we needn't have been afraid, for the monster didn't turn up. He did later, though, and it wasn't his fault the first time. To these, and the others who got away, we repeat our greetings. But not without wondering why it was that the only ones who avoided us were from either the United States or Canada—there was Artie Shaw, who positively loathed reporters, Charles Edmondson, who showed us how Fortune could frown, Gene Tunney, who simply wasn't around except at the Press function, a most un-intimate affair, and L. W. Brockington, who didn't trust our shorthand. Could there be any sort of suspicion of reporters in that North American continent, perhaps? Or does the one big exception, the First Lady of the United States, disprove this theory?

WHY YOUR GROCER SOMETIMES SAYS— "NO BISCUITS TODAY!"

The New Zealand biscuit factories listed below are engaged primarily on War contracts—working overtime and double shifts.

(What a strong endorsement of the food value of biscuits!)

The Biscuit Industry has produced biscuits for:

Imperial Government,
New Zealand Army, Navy and Air Force,
United Nations Forces in the Pacific,
Merchant Navy,
N.Z. Home Defence Forces,
New Zealand Club in Cairo,
N.A.A.F.I. (Navy, Army, Air Force Institute of Great Britain).

Because of these military requirements supplies of our biscuits for the civilian population are much reduced.

Don't blame the shopkeeper or the manufacturer, therefore, if you cannot always get biscuits. Full supplies will be placed on the market again when circumstances permit.

Interview With A Pacific Correspondent

ACCORDING to Lieut. D. W. Bain, official war correspondent with the Pacific Division, the change from garrison duty to offensive action made new men of our Pacific expeditionary force. Before the order came to them to move forward they felt a little lost. They knew that some force had to occupy New Caledonia, and that their presence there not only kept the enemy out, but released a corresponding number of men for the forward areas. But they were unhappy. They felt neglected and misjudged. And then suddenly the word went round that they were operational troops, and the change, Lieut. Bain said, was sensational.

Lieut. Bain returned to Wellington last week on a brief tour of duty, and in an interview with The Listener gave some glimpses of a correspondent's life in the forward area where the Division now operates.

Many of the things he told us cannot yet be printed, and when men fight in small parties in impenetrable jungle some things happen that will never be told because they will never be known. But some of the things that impressed Lieut. Bain most deeply were the blackness, the eeriness, the nerve strain of jungle life after sunset.

"Twelve hours in a fox-hole without food or drink or a smoke, without conversation, and perhaps without certain knowledge whether the enemy is in front of you or behind, will try the strongest nerves."

And there can be more than human enemies to keep you on edge. One of his experiences was to spend a night in a dug-out a few yards from the mouth of a river. As there were only two of them in this shelter they took turns at watching and trying to sleep. They had got through about half the night in this way when he was sure he heard the slosh-slosh of men walking down the river's edge and round them. Not a word was said, and it was not safe to flash a torch or crawl out to investigate. They were clearly being headed off and surrounded. And they were—as it proved: by crocodiles!

WELL, that was one experience for which the Japanese were only indirectly responsible. Another was the constant war with malarious mosquitoes. Once the Division moved away from New Caledonia it entered the malaria zone, and the price of safety there is not merely eternal vigilance by day but almost superhuman alertness by night. It is usually impossible during actual fighting to carry mosquito nets, or use them if they can be carried, so the only chance of defeating mosquitoes—in other words, of escaping malaria—is to keep all exposed parts of the skin protected by a repellent lotion.

In spite of all these precautions, malaria claims victims, though not yet enough to disorganise operations. Fortunately, it attacks our enemies as freely as it does our own forces. Lieut. Bain is convinced that the Japanese suffer more than we do from sickness.

LIEUT. D. W. BAIN

The crocodiles were nerve-wracking

and as much, too, from the humid heat which robs everybody of half his energy.

LIEUT. BAIN was enthusiastic about his colleagues, the Australian and American correspondents. They are not merely co-operative, he told us, but friendly and helpful in the most amazing ways; and the nearer you get to the enemy the more marked this characteristic is.

"In the fighting zones you are not rivals: you are colleagues. Your own job comes first, but you don't cut another man's throat to beat him with a story—especially if he is such a good chap as all these fellows are."

"If you have come to your job through the army, as I have, you have one attitude, but if you are a civilian newspaper man, you have another attitude. It is something like this. In the first case you find yourself wondering if a story is true, if it will help the army to publish it, and if it will pass the censor. In the second case your chief concern is whether it is a good story and how you can make the most of it and get it away with the least possible delay. So the best stories—by which I mean the most sensational and dramatic—tend to go to individual newspapers. The best verified may be sent by official correspondents who feel that they are servants of the State, and know that accuracy in their case is more important than speed."

EXCELLENT work, Lieut. Bain told us, is being done by the New Zealand Broadcasting Unit operating in the Pacific. Though conditions are difficult, the Unit has found its way into strange places and succeeded in keeping contact with the fighting sections of the expeditionary force. The news service from the New Zealand end was also appreciated, though it was difficult in such unreal surroundings really to feel close to New Zealand. One trouble is that the news continuity is often broken by active service conditions. But the chief difficulty is that nothing read or heard in such a strange world seems to have reality. "Rumours, of course, have been a part of camp life since the beginning of military history. But when force headquarters are on one island, divisional headquarters on another, and brigade headquarters perhaps somewhere else, when you live in and out of jungle retreats, and travel by water or by air, it is almost impossible to make and keep the contacts that reduce rumours to nonsense and leave you with a secure hold of the basic facts."

NEURITIS

Doctors' treatments, mineral baths, advertised cures, did not work—but two packets of R.U.R. did the trick, states P. J. Doyle, ambulance officer, of North Melbourne. Writing in October, 1942. Mr Doyle says:—

"Dear Sir,—I have been a sufferer from Neuritis for many years, under several doctors, taking courses of mineral baths and using many well-known advertised safe cures, but to no avail. I was in Sydney on annual leave when a friend told me to try a course of R.U.R. Well, I was prepared to try anything to cure me; after two 7/6 courses of R.U.R. all effects of Neuritis had vanished, thanks to this great remedy. I always keep a bottle in my medicine chest." Notice how Mr Doyle leaves no doubt as to his faith in R.U.R.—"after two 7/6 courses all effects of Neuritis had vanished," he says. He is not alone in his faith, as scores of other ill-health sufferers find R.U.R. the only worth-while treatment.

QUIZZING

Pacific "Radio" Service

SOMEWHERE in the South Pacific there is a radio station where the quizzmaster "quizzes" in the semi-nude. News broadcasts, propaganda and the like do not concern the shirtless announcer and his shirtless assistants—his business is front-line morale. Radio B.U.N.K., New Georgia, is the call-sign.

Bidding fair to be the world's strangest broadcasting set-up, the station is the result of much enterprise and ingenuity on the part of South Pacific airmen at an R.N.Z.A.F. base on tropical New Georgia in the Solomon Islands area. Like a wartime recipe, the organisation has few ingredients, consisting mainly of a tent, packing cases and a public address system. What is lacking in 1ZB "streamlinedness" and general opulence, however, is more than compensated for by resource and local wit.

Nightly broadcasts are made to the camp, loudspeakers being placed at strategic positions throughout the grounds. Sessions cover all forms of musical presentation, the only limitation being the records on hand. Thoroughly "ZB-ish" in some respects, the station features quizz sessions, often with a touch of local colour.

WITHOUT A SHIRT

RADIO B.U.N.K. broadcasts a quizz session: the scripts originate at the left and pass straight to the announcer, third from right

Defiance of convention is the keynote of Radio B.U.N.K., and no fewer than seven or eight technicians, announcers, effect men, script-writers and general supporters co-operate simultaneously in operating the plant. Quizz scripts are sometimes concocted and put across on the spot; and insect swatting, lighting of pipes, and peeling-off of shirts do much to strip the station of the commonplace. The announcer's desk is a packing-case covered with an issue blanket.

This New Georgian public-address-cum-radio station, with its ability to provide command performances at two minutes' notice, and with a range and repertoire of no practical value to enemy intelligence, is doing a solid job of maintaining morale.

Elasto has often achieved amazing results for sufferers from varicose veins, varicose ulcers, swollen legs, and practically all similar leg troubles. The relief after taking Elasto Sometimes Seems Magical, although it's not due to magic—it's usually the result of Improved Circulation.

How ELASTO can help

Elasto, the tiny tablet that does so much, can really be of assistance in improving circulation, because it can help Nature in her work of restoring elasticity to the veins, thus re-establishing Normal, Healthy Circulation.

With afflictions of this type, bad circulation or lost elasticity is often the main trouble. That's why it's Worth Trying Elasto.

TEN BEST OF THE YEAR

THE TEN Best Pictures of the Year (or should it be the Best Ten)? But why ten; why not twenty, or six, or thirty-nine?

Because ten is for some reason the traditional mystic number for this purpose; and anyway, there just haven't been Twenty Best Pictures this year.

As it happens, my choice this time is comparatively easy, for on looking back through The Listener's of the past 12 months I find that on only 12 occasions has our little man (whose opinion I value as highly as my own), risen from his theatre seat to applaud. Obviously then, all that remains for me to do is to delete two titles, which leaves us with the following (not necessarily in order of merit):

"Mrs. Miniver" (January 8).
 "The Talk of the Town" (February 19).
 "Moontide" (March 5).
 "Tortilla Flat" (July 9).
 "The Moon and Sixpence" (July 16).
 "Stand By For Action" (August 27).
 "Tennessee Johnson" (November 5).
 "Love on the Dole" (December 24).
 "Keeper of the Flame" (December 24).
 "I Married a Witch" (December 24).

The dates refer to the issues of The Listener in which these films were reviewed, and although I was partly responsible for the traffic jam at the end through having taken time off from reviewing, it will be noticed that four out of the 10 films came in the last two months of the year, while another one, Mrs. Miniver, just squeezed in at the beginning.

The two films which I had to delete from the little man's total of 12 "stand-up claps" were Chaplin's Gold Rush, and the war drama Wake Island. Anyway, The Gold Rush did not properly belong in a 1943 collection: it was a resurrection from the great silent past. And though Wake Island had considerable merit—it was almost documentary in its realism, and resisted the temptation to put a blonde in the bomb-rack—I can let it go with less reluctance than I would feel about any of the others.

I SHALL not attempt here to justify in detail the choice of The Ten. If any reader has had the diligence to save 52 back issues of The Listener, he may also have the energy to turn up the dates mentioned and see exactly why the little man bounded from his seat with enthusiasm on those occasions. But briefly, here are the chief reasons why those pictures were specially applauded:

Mrs. Miniver, for being a real and not a phoney story about the war, and for the acting of Greer Garson (she was subsequently announced as an Academy Award winner—and incidentally, we have not yet seen Yankee Doodle Dandy, which won James Cagney the corresponding award); The Talk of the Town, for being humorous as well as exciting and, in spite of becoming tongue-tied at the finale, for having something to say; Moontide, for Jean Gabin, Thomas Mitchell and Ida Lupino, and for fine atmosphere; Tortilla Flat, for Spencer Tracy, Frank Morgan, good atmosphere and a cheerful philosophy; The Moon and Sixpence, for the performance by George Sanders and for being intelligent adult entertainment; Stand By For Action,

FLIES—One cause of SUMMER SICKNESS!

Summer sickness is due to infection. Anyone can get it, but babies are particularly prone. The symptoms are diarrhoea and vomiting, and in babies high temperature. Get the doctor at once, and give in the meantime water that has been boiled.

Artificially-fed babies get summer sickness from infected food such as unclean milk, or from unclean utensils and careless handling of food, from dirty hands and dirty 'dummies' (which are always unhygienic), and from FLIES which infect everything they touch.

In breast-fed babies, infection is usually due to neglect in care of the breasts. Nevertheless, for young babies breast feeding (with proper care taken) is the best preventive of summer sickness.

WAGE WAR ON FLIES

Here is the song of the fly:

Straight from the rubbish heap I come
 I never wash my feet
 And every single chance I get
 I walk on what you eat.

Keep flies off all food. Stop them breeding. Keep rubbish in closed containers. Use household sprays liberally. Protect milk from flies, dust and dirty hands. Use pasteurised milk. Otherwise home pasteurise or scald it. Then keep it COOL. Keep all food utensils scrupulously clean and where flies cannot get at them.

Mother! Always wash your hands and scrub fingernails after attending to baby, and BEFORE preparing baby's food.

ONLY THIS KIND OF CARE WILL PREVENT INFECTION

for Charles Laughton, and for being good fun; Tennessee Johnson, for Van Heflin, and for being the best sort of historical drama; Love on the Dole, for its acting, its humanity, its appeal to the heart as well as to the head; Keeper of the Flame, for its strong suspense and its much-better-than-average story; and I Married a Witch for its tonic qualities and Rene Clair's direction.

My research among the files reveals that, out of a total of 83 visits to the cinema during 1943, we—that is, the little man and I—showed our appreciation sitting down 27 times (as against the 12 stand-up claps); through 32 films we just sat and took notice; and on 11 occasions we were almost prone with boredom. But only once did we so far forget our responsibility as critics as to walk out. That, I imagine, would just about represent an average experience for a year's picture-going—12 outstanding films, 27 pretty good ones, 32 just average, 11 duds, and one fair cow.

If you ask me for my choice of The Most Outstanding Film of 1943, I hesitate momentarily between Mrs. Miniver and Love on the Dole, and then vote for the latter. Both were films of Britain at war—in the one case at war with the Nazis, in the other at war with poverty and an economic system that was out of joint. But whereas Mrs. Miniver was a warm-hearted and moving tribute by an American studio to a small section of the people of Britain (and within those limits I believe it was a true enough picture), Love on the Dole was an equally warm-hearted and I would imagine even truer picture, by a British producer, of a very much greater section. In fact, a story of The People, in the Ma Joad sense.

Yet with the exception of these two films, and a few others, 1943 has been a poor year in the cinema. Even some of those that have got into our list of the Ten Best would not have been accounted really outstanding by the standards of other years, and certainly the competition would have been keener and my choice correspondingly harder. I am afraid that four years of war are having their effect on the film industry; it has not re-adjusted itself to the situation. It looks back, rather than forward, and I believe is losing touch with the mood of the people.

MAORIS GO TO TOWN

Children From Tokomaru See The Sights

MISS N. Matahiki, the trainer of the Tokomaru Native School choir, and Mary Ngawai, the leader

Autographs were eagerly sought from the visitors: an incident at Clyde Quay School

OUT on the playing field the children were gathered together—Maori and Pakeha—playing cricket, chasing about, finding a place in the sun. The children were the pupils of a Wellington public school and the members of the Tokomaru Bay Native School Choir, and they were all getting together as though they were life-long friends—which really was one of the objects of the visit: to encourage greater understanding and friendship between Maori and Pakeha. Tokomaru Bay is 60 miles north of Gisborne on the East Coast and the native school there is one of the largest in New Zealand. Over 200 pupils attend. They are members of the Ngati Porou Tribe. It was the pupils from this school who took part in the celebrations at Ruarua, where they were so successful with their singing and dancing that the idea of a tour took root and grew. The fruits of the tour are obvious. Everywhere the children have gone they have been met with understanding and kindness.

"This is a goodwill tour as well as an educational one," the Headmaster told us. "Many of the children had never seen a train before and none of them had ever slept away from home. We left Tokomaru Bay at 6 o'clock and travelled to Gisborne by motor. There were cars waiting for us there: they rushed us all round Gisborne in the 25 minutes we were there and just about showed us everything. Then we went on to Palmerston North by train and the children were all billeted in private homes. We had to leave next morning but the children seemed to have seen all Palmerston in that time. Now they are billeted in Wellington and they are loving every minute here."

A crowd of little boys came clambering round a Maori boy. "Shake hands, shake hands," they were yelling. The Maori boy solemnly shook hands all round and the little boys beamed with pleasure. Some older girls came up, arms round a Maori girl.

"We had to stop them giving autographs for a while. It took all their time signing their names, without doing anything else. But they will certainly take some new ideas back with them," said the Headmaster. "They've broadcast over the wireless, they've been to Parliament Buildings, they've performed at the Opera House. They've been entertained by Lady Pomare and other Maoris. They've seen most of the public schools, and they've been over the woollen mills. They've been filmed at the Miramar Film Studios and they've been to the Zoo. And those are only some of the things they've done."

A recording of items made by the Maori children while in Wellington will be heard from 2YA on January 6.

I NEVER suspected that Steel
Appeared under so many Guises

THIS YEAR'S REFRIGERATOR RECIPES

SEVERAL Links in the Daisy Chain have written in for recipes for Ice Cream and other frozen or chilled desserts made without cream. Our home-makers are rising to this present-day challenge to "make bricks without straw"; and are busy with new ideas and new combinations. Actually, it is quite a good thing for us to get out of our "food-rut"; and so do please send in to Aunt Daisy, any discoveries you make.

Ice Cream Without Cream

(1) One pint milk, 3 tablespoonfuls cream milk powder (this must be always well beaten with a little extra milk besides the pint), 2 dessertspoons custard powder, 1 or 2 tablespoons sugar—according to taste, 3 tablespoons sweetened condensed milk, a little vanilla essence. Bring all ingredients to the boil in a double saucepan, but do not boil; then add 2 teaspoons gelatine dissolved in a little water. Put into refrigerator—full freeze—for 1 hour, take out and beat well again, and put back into refrigerator. This is very rich Ice Cream.

(2) To 1 cup milk add the beaten yolk of 1 egg. Add 1 tablespoon cornflour, sugar and flavouring to taste. Boil to custard consistency. Dilute with milk till it is like good cream. Pour into the freezer.

(3) Put half a cup sugar and  $\frac{1}{2}$  packet jelly crystals (any flavour) into a saucepan with a little hot water till melted. Put 3 cups milk in a basin and a pinch of salt; add sugar and jelly mixture, and beat well with beater. Put in refrigerator to freeze. When just set, beat with a fork and freeze again. For variety, and to save sugar, you can use a whole packet of jelly crystals and no sugar.

(4) One and a quarter cups top milk, 2 eggs,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sugar, 1 dessertspoon flour, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1-8th teaspoon salt. Scald milk, beat yolks of eggs, adding sugar and flour. Combine with hot milk, and cook on low heat till mixture coats a spoon like thin custard. Cool. Beat egg whites till stiff, add salt, and fold into custard. Add vanilla. Pour into tray of refrigerator and freeze.

(5) Coffee Ice Cream may be made by scalding  $\frac{1}{4}$  tablespoons coffee with the milk, then straining the liquid through several thicknesses of muslin.

Substitute for Cream

(1) Melt a small tablespoon of butter in a  $\frac{1}{2}$  pint of warm water. Stir in 3 heaped tablespoons of full-cream dried milk. Whip this up with an egg-beater, and add 1 teaspoon sugar and a little vanilla flavouring. Chill.

PEA POD SOUP (NOURISHING)

Wash and drain 1lb. fresh pea pods. Melt 2 tablespoons dripping in a stew pan, put in a finely minced onion, and then the pods, and fry for 5 minutes. Then sprinkle with 2 tablespoons flour and stir well. Add by degrees, 2 cups of milk and 2 cups of vegetable-water. Bring to boil while stirring, season with pepper, salt and nutmeg, and cook gently for an hour. Rub through sieve, re-heat, and when boiling thicken with sago or cornflour.

(2) From a pint of milk take sufficient to mix 1 heaped dessertspoon custard powder to a thin smooth cream. Add 1 dessertspoon sugar to remainder of milk, bring to the boil, and pour the mixed custard slowly into it, stirring all the time. Pour immediately into jug. Serve hot or cold with stewed fruit, puddings, etc. The addition of the beaten whites of 1 or 2 eggs whisked into the custard when cool makes a rich custard sauce.

It is not the fault of your Chemist or Store-keeper if he cannot fill all your demands for Bayer's Aspirin Tablets.

Gooseberry Fool

Stew 1lb. green gooseberries with a little water and  $\frac{3}{4}$ lb. sugar till perfectly tender. Rub through wire sieve, and add to just over  $\frac{1}{2}$  pint milk, which has been boiled and which has a dessert-spoon of condensed milk dissolved in it. Mix well and put aside to cool. Or alternatively, add  $\frac{1}{2}$  pint of good custard, make with either custard powder or eggs, to the sieved pulp.

Really Good Dripping

Dear Aunt Daisy,

Have you tried making your own dripping this way? Buy 2lbs. or more of beef-fat, not suet, and put it through the mincer. Then put it into a saucepan with only a little water, and boil until dissolved; then strain. When set it is almost like butter, and much better than bought dripping; and there is hardly any waste.—Here's wishing you well, from Linwood.

Juvenile "Find"

WANDA POLSON, a 13-year-old soprano, who recently faced the microphone at 2ZB's studios in her first broadcast. It was voted a big success.

Behind this first appearance is the story of finding local talent. Some time ago, when 2ZB were broadcasting camp concerts, Wanda (who was visiting a camp to see her father), gave an impromptu item, and her performance was noted by a member of 2ZB's staff. Later, an audition at the microphone was arranged, and after this, a teacher was recommended by the station. The result was a first-class performance after eight months' tuition.

New ZB Serial

DIGGER HALE'S Daughters is the title of a new serial beginning at 12B at 10.30 p.m. on Thursday, January 6. It carries the sub-title: "A story of these days"—and judging by what we have been able to hear so far that is what it is; a drama of little triumphs, of every-day heroisms, of patience, sacrifice, laughter and tears. But we may be able to tell you more next week.

Rationing In Various Countries

(Written for "The Listener" by DR. MURIEL BELL, Nutritionist to the Health Department)

THE following figures for 1942 may be of interest as indicating the number of calories or heat units per day provided by the foods that are rationed in various countries involved in the war. Since these were published, further rationing has been introduced, e.g., in U.S.A.—hence they probably err on the side of optimism:

Play Safe! MOTHPRUF YOUR HOME NOW!

You may not see many moths—but the grubs are working hard—eating, chewing, gnawing your lovely carpets, hangings, blankets—anything that is left lying still for a short while. Spray or rub with Mothpruf to destroy every egg grub and moth. Do this at least three times a year. Mothpruf is death to insect pests and silverfish. Ask your store for Mothpruf. Don't delay.

SMASH CATARRH

Bronchitis, Antrum and Sinus Trouble.

Although it is no longer necessary, thousands still suffer the misery, unpleasantness and illness of Catarrh. His face pasty and yellow—his breath sour, and his vitality destroyed by poisonous germs, the Catarrh sufferer is indeed a pitiable object. Catarrh begins in the nasal passages, often resulting from a neglected cold. It is caused by germs. Catarrh may cause serious chest complaints, deafness, head noises, constantly recurring colds, indigestion, constipation, skin troubles, etc. Catarrh gradually grows worse and does not get better without bacteriological treatment. Lantigen is such a treatment and treats Catarrh successfully by attacking each germ separately. Catarrh germs are destroyed and removed, and immunity is built up so that the symptoms do not return.

LETTERS FROM LISTENERS

REHABILITATION OF WOMEN.

Sir,—After reading your interview with Lieutenant-Colonel Baker it occurred to me that I have read or heard little of the plans of the Rehabilitation Board for dealing with ex-servicewomen. Certainly the R.S.A. and the Home Services' Association have made it clear that their organisations are open to women as well as men, but that appears to be as much as has been done. I have never belonged to any one of the services, but my work has brought me into contact with women in every branch and one of the most noticeable, and most serious of the difficulties in this connection is that most of them seem unaware that any problem of rehabilitation will exist for them. The very fact that so many women enjoy service life would seem to indicate a desire to escape from the monotonous realities of their previous existence—which is not so much a reflection upon them as upon that existence conventionally expected of New Zealand women—but they have formed no definite plan of making constructive future use of the knowledge, if any, which they have acquired during the war.

Do the authorities assume that all these women will display meek gratitude at being permitted to return to their former spheres, usually all too narrow, until they slide into the "proper" status of wife and mother? Having made a brief excursion into what has in the past been erroneously regarded as exclusively male territory, most women, consciously or unconsciously, will resent any attempts which may force them to forgo their newly-found approach to genuine equality.

—JUANITA (Morrinsville).

BRAINS TRUST.

Sir,—What is wrong with this "sanctified imported English article" as one of your correspondents describes the BBC Brains Trust? I think it is a privilege to hear the opinions of noted men and women of the United Kingdom, as well as those of other countries: for instance, Mayor La Guardia and the Polish Foreign Minister.

"Stupid" asks why New Zealand cannot produce the equivalent. I think New Zealand has, in that excellent session the A.E.W.S. discussion group presents weekly, and although they have not discussed more than one subject in an evening, I think they compare very favourably with the BBC Brains Trust.

But have other listeners noticed the deep tone of the Brains Trust broadcasts? This often makes hearing difficult and a strain. I have wondered whether the fault has been in the recording, or whether 2YA produces a deeper tone in all of its broadcasts than 1YA.

—C. A. READ (Hamilton).

Sir,—I am glad to get the BBC Brains Trust direct from 2YA—and could we have less "Americana"? I know it is to cheer up homesick servicemen, but many Americans approve of a good BBC programme. MARTHA (Hastings).

RUSSIA AND POLAND

Sir,—I deeply regret to see Soviet-baiting à la Mode sneaking into The Listener in the cunning disguise of "interesting sidelights on the position and influence of women in pre-war Poland."—A. McLEOD (Remuera).
(Too cunning for us.—Ed.).

RADIO ADVERTISING.

Sir,—Can a listener do anything to improve the standard of advertising announcements to which he is compelled to listen from the Commercials? Most announcements are far too long. Nothing can be more exasperating than listening to an announcer wading through a half foolscap sheet of blurb, with a monotonous repetition of the sponsor's name, address, and description after every sentence. If an advertiser cannot get his message across in 15 to 20 seconds he should get a new copywriter. Long-winded announcements are not only tiresome, but are poor sales policy.

Some advertisers greatly underrate the mentality of the average New Zealander. If a sponsor quotes the high-sounding formula of his preparation, most people are at once suspicious, not impressed. Most people know the symptoms of constipation, without having them shouted at meal time. Smokers will never be convinced that such-and-such a cigarette is so much better until it has improved a little in quality.

Nor should advertisers try so hard to be patriotic—it doesn't become them. A blurb about so-and-so's model hats concluded by a squander bug admonition just doesn't ring true. Listeners are tired of being told that "our factories are engaged on work of national importance"—the advertiser is probably making a good thing out of it anyway.

I made similar complaints to an announcer friend of mine recently. He said: "You only have to listen—try reading the goddam things, and more-over with enthusiasm."

—"PAINED" (Christchurch).

MAORIS AFTER THE WAR.

Sir,—After reading your article dealing with rehabilitation of soldiers I offer a couple of suggestions for consideration. With regard to Maori soldiers why not offer to the Imperial authorities a permanent force of, say, 1000 men for duties in the Pacific, India, or wherever required? The Maori regiment would have great traditions to live up to and would give a good account of themselves as soldiers in any field. Another idea that might be investigated would be the manning of a small cruiser with Maori personnel. In olden days the ancestors of the Maori proved themselves great sailors—recall the voyages of Kupe. A warship manned by a Maori crew would be something to be reckoned with.

LONGER BROADCASTS.

Sir,—Why are we given such small doses of the BBC Brains Trust? Obviously some of the programmes are broken off in the middle. This 15-minute limit seems to apply to most things—about the duration of a good kindergarten lesson. Only musicians are apparently deemed capable of listening for more than a quarter of an hour at a time to one thing. It is perhaps understandable for serials, but for listeners to other things I think the NBS might experiment with longer programmes. For instance, Professor Gordon must have felt his limitation of time very severely in his Winter Course this year. With so many stations to provide variety, could we not occasionally have a whole half hour in which to think of one subject? LINDA BENNETT (Palmerston North)
