"The Three Elizabeths," a suite describing the three most famous Elizabeths in British Royal History, was suggested to its composer in a letter from a country clergyman, who put the idea forward "for what it was worth." Within five minutes of receiving the letter Eric Coates telephoned the writer, thanked him, and told him he was going to write the suite. An acknowledgment appears in the full score. "The Three Elizabeths" will be played by the New Symphony Orchestra conducted by the composer, from 4ZB tonight at 6 o'clock.
