

sausage manufacturer paid him £2000 a week. Trinder wrote his own scripts:

"These sausages have skins like nine out of ten Hollywood film stars, skins you love to touch." In the old Tommy Trinder manner, he commented: "They had never heard anything like that before. And in theatres when I talked about my favourite subject—Trinder—they had to turn the customers away."

"The Duke of Edinburgh asked me if they understood me. Understood me! Why, when a couple of English people came to one of my shows, they didn't get a word I said. Now I'm home, I'm going to learn the English language again."

Tommy Trinder is about to start a countrywide English tour, his second in 15 years.

By the way, has he been forgiven for his remark about New Zealand Rugby?
