At their London Palladium debut a year or two ago, the Deep River Boys' popularity eclipsed even that of the Ink Spots and the Golden Gate Quartet, who had performed there in preceding years. The Deep River Boys may be heard from 3ZB at 3.45.

Those who remember the Bing Crosby movie hit of 1941, "Going My Way," will be bound to know the song "Swingin' on a Star" which won the Academy Award for the best movie melody of the year. The composer Jimmy Van Heusen has been in the song business since leaving college in 1932. His early songs didn't quite hit the mark, and he eked out his living with his own dance band until 1935, when a song called "It's the Dreamer in Me" made him a small fortune. He now owns his own publishing company, but continues to write music. Some of his best-known songs may be heard in "Composers' Corner" from 4ZB at 4.15.
