Tasmania claims a link with the famous County of Cumberland horseman, John Peel, through the late John Graves, a hunting friend who composed the rousing hunting song without which the world would today know nothing about John Peel. Graves, who was a great admirer of Peel's horsemanship, was listening one day to a lullaby being sung by his small son, and was so impressed that he wrote new words to the tune—the words of "D'Ye Ken John Peel," which is one of the songs in a programme by the Victor Male Chorus from 3ZB at 3.45 this afternoon.

Eddie Calvert—the man with the golden trumpet—may be heard from 2ZA at 6.15 tonight.

SARLESCO

I believe in a good interlock underwear. It keeps an even body-warmth, however much the outside temperature changes. But I must have a make with reliable sizes—and one that stands up to continual wash and wear.

And I won't pay "fancy" prices! That's why I always insist on Sarlesco is made for all-the-year-round family wear, and is sold by reliable Stores everywhere.
