WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel — And You'll Jump out of Bed in the Morning Full of Vim.

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Wind bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, tired and weary and the world looks blue.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two 'pounds' of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely.

Ask for CARTER'S Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

TOTTERING FENCES

by "SUNDOWNER"

I DON'T know which surprises me most—the fences on so many Canterbury road lines or the patience of those who suffer from them. I helped the other day to drive a mob of sheep about three miles and in that short distance there were seven gaps two or three yards wide closed by loose stretches of barbed wire. Sometimes there were two wires, in every case there was an invitation to sheep to break through; as they of course did. The attitude of the owners no doubt is that two barbed wires will stop cattle, and that as dairy farmers they are not interested in sheep. But it is a stupid attitude, and anti-social. There is hardly a dairy farm in Canterbury whose road fences could not be made secure for less than the price of one cow, but if it cost two or three cows the job would still be worth doing. I am thinking particularly of holes in gorse hedges, which a single hurdle would stop; but the trouble is that holes in fences usually mean holes in our heads and in our characters. They are there not because we are poor, or overworked, or unable to obtain materials, but because we are lazy, or selfish, or muddlers, or bad neighbours.

A FRIEND to whom I mentioned the fences of Canterbury asked me if I had heard of Rip Van Winkle. Driving sheep on the roads, he argued, is a prehistoric occupation, and ought to be a public offence. "If you drove a bullock waggon through Cathedral Square you would be arrested," and the day is not far off when it will be counted as crazy to drive sheep on the public (continued on next page)

Farrell's 1952 Tour

FOURTEEN engagements appear on the schedule of the 1952 New Zealand concert tour to be made by Richard Farrell, his first appearance being with the National Orchestra in Wellington on Monday, May 5. Mr. Farrell's first solo performance will be given on Wednesday, May 7, in Auckland, where his programme will include the Beethoven Sonata, Opus 7; Sonata in A Minor, Opus 143, by Schubert; Debussy's Suite Bergamasque; Ballade in G Minor, and Polonaise in A Flat, by Chopin. The following evening Mr. Farrell will appear in Palmerston North for a solo performance. His itinerary from there takes him to Christchurch on May 13 (with the National Orchestra); May 17, Wellington (solo); May 20, Dunedin (with Orchestra); May 24, Christchurch (solo); May 26, Hamilton (solo); May 28, Auckland (solo); May 31, Wellington (solo); June 3, Dunedin (solo); June 5 and 7, Auckland (both with Orchestra); June 10, Christchurch (solo). On the occasions when Mr. Farrell plays with
