Older listeners will find some of their favourites recalled in "From the Tunes of Twenties," from 1ZB at 3.35.

The Roberto Inglez Orchestra always gives an authentic air to their South American numbers although most of the band members are English. Their leader is a Scotsman who found that it paid to have a foreign sounding name. Recordings may be heard from 2ZB at 3.30.

Eddie Duchin, whose death occurred last year, was a well-respected member of New York Society whose profession as orchestral leader and pianist remained something of a hobby. Examples of his stylings will be heard at 4.15 from 4ZB.
