J. HUTCHISON, Pastrycook & Confectioner,

Begs to intimate that he has taken over, from the 1st November, the Business as BREAD BAKERS so long and successfully carried on by Messrs SEARLE & EBERHARDT, and solicits a continuance of the patronage extended for many years to that firm. Nothing will be left undone on his part to merit a continuance of such patronage, and to maintain the reputation of his predecessors in

J. HUTCHISON has had an experience, extending over many years, of the trade both in Scotland and in London, where he had been in the employment of some of the largest bread-makers. The firms with whom he was connected in London were noted for the excellence of their goods, being first prize takers at the annual exhibitions held in the great metropolis.
