

Australia's Federal Capital City

FINALLY APPROVED PLAN

Through the courtesy of the Minister for Home Affairs of New South Wales we are able to present

Griffin, an American architect. Mr. Griffin was afterwards engaged to come to Australia and supervise the carrying out of the plan, and he is now there arranging for various competitions for the main groups of buildings to be erected. The first competition is for the Parliamentary Buildings, and our readers with a print of the finally-approved plan of the future capital of the Australian Federal State—Canberra.

This plan has caused a good deal of feeling in Australia. The competition, which was a world-wide event, had a great number of designs sent in, the winning design being that of Mr. Walter Burley a prize of £2000 is offered to the winning design.

Australia is to be congratulated on the results of this competition now that it is finally settled and a definite plan arranged for. They are also fortunate in having obtained the services of Mr. Burley Griffin, who should do much towards the betterment of Australian architecture.
