

"Poilite" Asbestos Roofing Tiles

GIVE that distinctive, well-finished appearance to a residence that makes its owner proud of it.

This is only one of the features of a "POILITE" Roof that helps the home-builder to select it.

One man prefers "POILITE" for his roof because it enables him to conserve all the rain water that falls on it, free from any flavour.

Another considers the immunity from regular painting sufficient inducement to select "POILITE."

Still others bear in mind the temperature-equalising, lightness and durability, and make their selection on account of these advantages; whilst financial considerations frequently prove the deciding factor in favour of "POILITE."

To set off the Roof to advantage the walls should be constructed of "POILITE" Building Sheets treated with rough-cast finish, thus obtaining an appearance of solidity and tone at a cost little, if any, greater than for weatherboard construction, with its many disadvantages.
