

Mona Tracy (left) is what one might call a student of broadcasting. She takes the keenest interest in this newest science, both from the performer's and the listener's angles. Mrs. Tracy, who is the wife of a well-known Christchurch lawyer, is a popular speaker from 3YA.

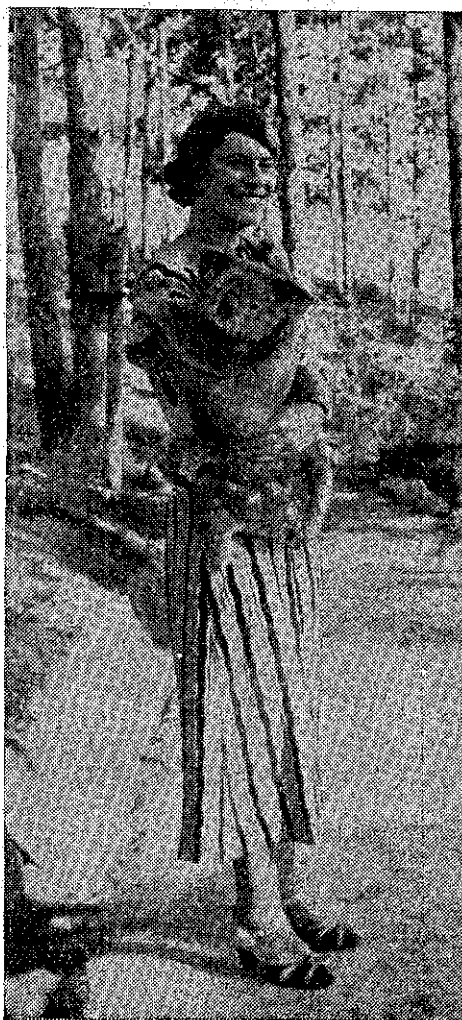

Experimenting in her kitchen is one of the favourite hobbies of Mrs. Evelyn Davies (nee Shepard), a frequent and popular performer from 4YA, Dunedin. Mrs. Davies, who is shown on the right, can cook as well as any chef.

Flowers and broadcasting are two of the interests of Dawn Harding's life—not forgetting a husband and a delightful six-months-old daughter. Miss Harding (above), who sings from 1YA, is the wife of Dr. Chisholm McDowell, of Remuera.

This is Aunt Anita's favourite snap of herself (right). Anita Winkel is eagerly listened for by thousands of young 4YA listeners—and her fan mail is something that would make a film star green with envy.

The photographer caught Margaret Macpherson (above) as she was leaving the General Assembly Library, Wellington. Mrs. Macpherson is a newspaper woman who has made just as great a success of broadcasting. She is at present on a lecture tour in the South Island, and speaks from 3YA this week.
