

"PATIENCE" AGAINWelcome Revival Twice
Featured This Week

IN the 'eighties of Good Queen Victoria's reign there came a sudden realisation that there was nothing so horrid or so divorced from the beautiful in life as the furniture, the decorations and the dress now called "Victorian."

A school of aesthetic thought arose, and its followers, like all reformers, carried the cult to the extreme, with results that have done more to give the Victorian era a bad name artistically than the antimacassars and wax fruit of our grandparents' day.

In the opera "Patience," Gilbert hits out at the extremists of aestheticism. This work was described more than 50 years ago as "An entirely new and original aesthetic opera." It was first produced at the Opera Comique, London, on April 23, 1881.

The day was a Saturday, and, as the saying goes, "Saturday's child works hard for its living." In the case of "Patience" this was fully borne out, because the opera ran continuously for nearly two years nightly in the same theatre. The title calls to mind an inquiry that was made by a lady from a rather crusty old man:—

"I wonder what has become of the fine old Christian names like Patience and Prudence?" asked the lady.

"Oh, I don't know," replied the livery old gentleman. "If I had two daughters to christen nowadays, I would call one Hysteria and the other Extravagance."

"Patience" was heard in a most acceptable casting in the radio revival at stations 1YX, 2YA, 3YL and 4YA on Sunday, May 19, and at 1YA, 2YC, 3YA and 4YO on Saturday, May 23, the programme will be repeated.

I TREMBLED with joy when I read Princess Mdivani's poems. One of them is a beautiful fragment of porcelain, as beautiful as Barbara's soul.—

"GOLDEN HOUR" COMPETITION NO. 9

MUST-BE-WON

FIRST PRIZE - £40

FOR CORRECT OR NEAREST CORRECT SOLUTION.

SECOND PRIZE - £10

FOR NEXT NEAREST SOLUTION.

INSTRUCTIONS.

To complete the puzzle:—Each picture represents ONE WORD ONLY, and each picture has a different word. You find these words by reading what appears alongside each picture and then refer to the picture itself. For example: Look at Picture No. 1: Alongside it you see "THE RIVERS" and the picture represents "ROSE".

Now carry on and when you get to the last picture you will have a statement about a "FLOOD" taken from a N.Z. Daily paper. The paragraph is simple and easily followed.

When you have completed your solution write it down on one side of a sheet of paper, simply number and send the missing words—no need to write the full paragraph. Add your name and address, enclose entry fee, and post
