

story to be directed by Frank Lloyd. There is a possibility that Paul Muni will be borrowed from Warner Brothers for this story. The latter company is going to remake "The Desert Song" in technicolour, while Twentieth Century is already hard at work on a colour film of the famous "Ramona."

"The Maid of The Mountains"

Amateur Production

"THE Maid of the Mountains," one of the finest musical comedies ever to be staged in New Zealand—and, incidentally, the play that won for Gladys Moncrieff a permanent place in the hearts of Australians and New Zealanders—is to be produced by the Dunedin Operatic Society soon. Members of the cast had a look at the film of the same name at the Grand Theatre, Dunedin, the other morning, picking up many useful tips. Leading members of the cast include Freda Elmes, Gwenda Burt, Reynolds Herbert, Arthur Lungley and Major F. J. Lampen, who is also the producer.

"The Garden of Allah" (all the old and celebrated ones are being brought to light again), is also to be filmed in colour.

Tired of It.

"I'M getting tired of walking about, tearing well-bred passions to tatters, silently suffering, always playing for audience pity," said Ruth Chatterton recently. She thinks she is going to like the part of the wife in "Dodsworth," her next film, because it is brilliant, showy and (she underlines the word) unsympathetic. Miss Chatterton wants her public to know that she "can dish it out as well as take it."

Picture Book

VIENNA has cut the red flag-waving episode out of Charlie Chaplin's "Modern Times" . . . the romance between Carol Lombard and Clark Gable seems to be warming up . . . Gary Cooper off on a fishing expedition to Bermuda before starting work on "The General Died at Dawn" with Madeleine Carroll . . . Warner Brothers, who made the film, "G-Men," warning other companies against the use of the term . . . Universal offering Victor McLaglen 100,000 dollars a picture .
