The French Court of Cassation has upheld the decision of the Court of Appeal and the Lower Court in an action brought by a wireless trader against a doctor. The action was in respect of the grave prejudice caused to the business of the wireless trader by the doctor's electro-therapeutic apparatus. The trader alleged that the doctor's apparatus caused serious interference with the listening of his customers, this having, indirectly, an adverse effect on his business. The two Lower Courts decided in favour of the trader, and the Court of Cassation has agreed with them.

American broadcasting programmes are not paid for out of license fees, as is the case in this country, but by various commercial concerns who sponsor programmes for the purpose of interlarding them with advertising announcements. Drug firms are by far the largest users of radio advertising, they being responsible for no less than 33 per cent. of the income of one leading broadcasting company. Foodstuff firms come second, they accounting for 27 per cent. of the income. Motor manufacturers, who contribute 10 per cent., occupy third place.
