Druse watched ... his hands grasped the rifle, his forefinger sought the trigger..

He was a soldier of the Federal Force; the horseman a Confederate Officer. Then Druse saw his enemy's face. His own went deathly pale and he shook in every limb. His duty was to prevent the man returning to camp with his fatal news, to shoot him from ambush—without warning. Yet the horseman was Druse's —? But you must read this powerful story by Ambrose Bierce with its poignant human interest and its sensational climax. It is but one of 200 world-famous stories, from the pens of immortal authors, gathered together and published in 3 Handsome Volumes. There are

2 VOLUMES of "THE WORLD'S BEST BOOKS" and
 1 VOLUME of "FAMOUS STORIES of FIVE CENTURIES."

They contain well-chosen stories by such writers as O. Henry, H. G. Wells, George Bernard Shaw, Joseph Conrad, Mark Twain, John Galsworthy and G. K. Chesterton, to mention only a few. There are tales of high adventure on land and sea. There is romance, drama, comedy—stories for every mood and every taste. Nearly 3000 pages and 400 illustrations. These 3 beautifully-bound volumes, printed in clear type, are a library in themselves.
