Slow-voiced Bob Burns seems determined to carry on the Will Rogers tradition of homespun philosophy. As "The Arkansas Traveller" (top left) he appears as a tramp printer going about the country spreading provincial epigrams. This is a Paramount picture. Another Paramount production is "Zaza" from which the above scene of the stars, Claudette Colbert and Herbert Marshall is taken.

The bright-faced youngster seen with Cecil Kellaway at the top of the page is Joan Halton, described as the "Deanna Durbin of Australian films." They both appear in Cinesound's "Mr. Chedworth Steps Out." Immediately above, setting off a new swim suit and new type of lounge chair, is Mary Carlisle, Paramount starlet who is usually Bing Crosby's inspiration. Receiving bad news on the telephone at the bottom of the page are Rudy Vallee and Rosemary Lane, stars of Warner Bros' "Gold Diggers In Paris."
