Dunedin

The Nerve have split following the departure of lead vocalist Ross McKenzie to Christchurch's Lipstick Collar. The Clean headed a successful one night bash at the Cook recently, supported by the Stones and Hank Van Der Vis's new band, the Dokters.

Shayne Carter and Miles (ex Heavenly Body) White are forming a band with two members from D-Faction. Meanwhile the Bored Games EP cover problems should be solved before Christmas and that and the new Chills' single are real presents.

Sneaky Feelings are back from Varsity studies with a single in the offing. The Verlaines' single 'Death and the Maiden', complete with oboe, is due soon. Chills' Martin Bull has just been married.

Original Foreign Agent bassist, Tony Lumsden has returned from Aussie to re-join the band ...
Netherworld Dancing Toys embark on an extensive South Island tour this month and they are about to record a single.

Wastrels play a wedding at the Hillsborough early New Year and plan to play Nelson, Motueka.
Harlequin and Propeller have both expressed interest in signing them.

Onset Offset the indie record label that bought out 20 Solid Krypton Hits, is planning their next album with a different format. Probably the same style line up with musicians being drawn from pool of un-named/incognito and more public figures, notably Urbs.

They Were Expendable are Dave Toland (drums, ex Play-things), Nick Strong (bass, ex Mainly Spaniards) and Jay Clarkson (vocals, guitar, ex Playthings).
