NEW RELEASES

THE TRIPLETS "Thicker Than Water"

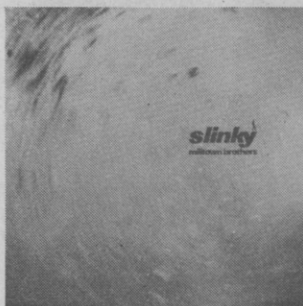

Featuring their debut hit single "You Don't Have To Go Home Tonight", The Triplets combine distinctive harmonies, pop music influences and their Latin roots to create a sound that is their own. The Villegas sisters are indeed triplets — born just seven minutes apart. If you liked Wilson Phillips — you'll love The Triplets!!!

JAMES "Gold Mother"

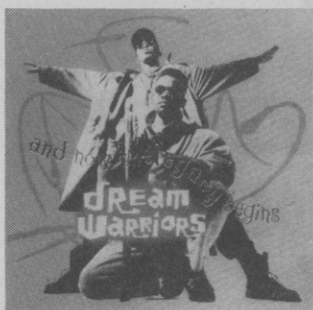

Originally released last year and voted NME's second best album of 1991, "Gold Mother" has been re-cut to include additional tracks "Lose Control" and the band's breakthrough UK hit single, "Sit Down". If you haven't heard "Sit Down", get a copy now - it's the catchiest single you'll hear all year.

MILLTOWN BROTHERS "Slinky"

 Q Magazine - April issue
British guitar band, The Milltown Brothers long awaited debut album, "Slinky" is brash, melodic and infuriatingly toe-tapping. Everything is crisp, rich in garage band inspiration, but never merely imitative. The Milltown's are fast emerging as most critics tip for the top in '91.

DREAM WARRIORS "And Now The Legacy Begins"

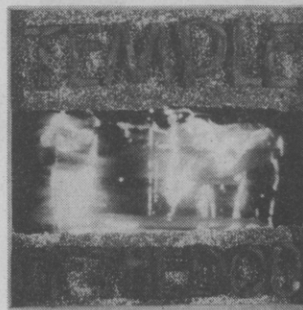

Canadian rap act The Warriors twist, funk, jazz, hip-hop and reggae styles around their wagging fingers, forging a sound that is at once richly challenging and extremely accessible. "And Now The Legacy Begins" will be adored by those who long to break through tried, tested and tried formulas!

PERE UBU "Worlds in Collision"

America's first and greatest "avante garage" band returns with a brand new album. "Worlds In Collision" picks up where 1989's critically acclaimed "Cloudland" left off and continues Ubu's musical odyssey into a new decade. It's memorable, it's humable, it's danceable, but mostly it's simply uncanny!

TEMPLE OF THE DOG "Temple Of The Dog"

The culmination of two former members of Mother Love Bone and two members of Soundgarden, plus Mike McCready for this one-off project - dedicated to Andrew Wood, the now deceased singer who fronted Mother Love Bone. This amazing lineup makes for a spellbinding and original end result. An album that Andrew Wood would most definitely have been proud of.

JULIAN COPE "Peggy Suicide"

More wacky and provocative by far is Julian Cope's new album "Peggy Suicide". This highly acclaimed nineteen track concept album is derived from Cope's personal vision of Mother Earth buried by chemical waste and roasting under the Greenhouse effect, and as always is uniquely Julian Cope.

THE FALL "Shiftwork"

"Shiftwork" is the latest chapter in the developing story of The Fall. Always five steps ahead of the bunch, "Shiftwork" is further proof of their brilliance. Given 10 out of 10 in both NME and Vox magazines, this is essential for both new and old Fall fans.

THE KENTUCKY HEADHUNTERS "Electric Barnyard"

Over 1,400,000 people have already learned the best kept secret in country music! 1991 Grammy Award Winners for: Best Country Performance Group With vocal Nashville's Kentucky Headhunters release their second album, "Pickin' On Nashville" featuring thirteen great songs including their recent US smash "The Ballad of Davy Crockett".
