

dissertation. O'Farrell, at the time a Research Scholar at the ANU, presented the Papers to the University's Archives. His thesis was subsequently published as Harry Holland: militant socialist (Canberra, 1964)

<sup>2</sup> Ray Grover, 'New Zealand manuscripts held in Australia', The Turnbull Library Record, 4 (n.s.) 2 (1971), pp 67-73

<sup>3</sup> The Crime of Conscription (Sydney, 1912); The Tramway Spy (Sydney, 1908)

<sup>4</sup> O'Farrell, Harry Holland . . . , p 222; Doug Munro, 'Pacific material in the H. E. Holland Papers', The Journal of Pacific History, 8 (1973), pp 86-87

<sup>5</sup> O'Farrell, Harry Holland . . . , p 85

<sup>6</sup> See the wry remark of P. S. O'Connor, 'The problem of indentured labour in Samoa under the Military Administration', Political Science, 20:2 (1968), p 20

<sup>7</sup> E.g., Annie Besant, From Within the Iron Ring: being an appeal from British Labour (London, 1918), p 10

<sup>8</sup> Holland, Indentured Labour: is it slavery? (Greymouth, 1919)