

Repair binding specialist

The woefully thin ranks of hand-binders in New Zealand are to be strengthened by the return of Mr Frank Levick to New Zealand. Mr Levick will be joining Modern Bookbinding Ltd in Wainuiomata and the firm has announced that it will now be able to offer a highly specialised service in the restoration and repair of old and fine bindings.

The 1979 Turnbull Library Prints

The Christopher Aubrey prints, described in detail in the last issue, are now on sale. The three prints are available singly ($4 each) or as a set ($12) with an illustrated text sheet in a folder bearing a fourth print. Members of the Friends of the Turnbull Library receive a 10% discount.

Notes on Contributors

ALAN LONEY founded Hawk Press in August 1975, to print books of poetry 'in form appropriate to their content', one of which, his own dear Mondrian, gained the NZ Book Awards poetry prize in 1978. He has recently begun printing on a hand-press, the result of which so far has been a limited edition of The Death of Captain Cook by J. C. Beaglehole, published by the Alexander Turnbull Library Endowment Trust, 1979. Articles on his work as a printer have appeared in Spleen, the Christchurch Press, and the New Zealand Listener. An exhibition of his books and printing was held at the Galerie Legard, Wellington, during April 1978. This is his first published article on printing.
