

HENARE EVERITT

Prior to the presentation of trophies by Ben Couch (above right), there was a delay while marks were totted up. This pause was amply filled by impromptu entertainment from the judges, Howard Morrison, Mark Metekingi and others, including (above) Ngoi Pewhairangi and the Rev. Napi Waka.

Ngati Rangiwehehi won the whakawatea (below right) with an exit inspired by Tamatekapua's stilt exploit. With them was Irirangi Tiakiawa (below) who once again treated the audience to a display of that nimble footwork.
