The Treaty of Waitangi

The collage features several key documents from the Treaty of Waitangi era. On the left, there are multiple columns of handwritten Māori text, likely the original or early drafts of the treaty. In the center, a large, ornate signature is visible, possibly of a key figure involved in the treaty's signing. To the right, there are more columns of handwritten text, some appearing to be in English, and a large, stylized signature. The documents are arranged in a way that suggests a historical narrative or a collection of related records.
